An idea whose time (but not money) has come?

Mass transit proposals in trouble across nation

By GEORGETTE WAGNER
By United Press International

Before the energy crisis struck, mass transit had a lot in common with a pair of old shoes —scuffed up and down at the heels.

But the image has changed. Mass transit is chic. Like windmills, mass transit represents an answer to the energy debacle and one way out of the clutches of oil barons.

But the rehabilitated image won't solve problems —and mass transit systems from New York to California face numerous problems.

Money is a major one. Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., and Rep. Joseph Minish, D-N.J., have introduced an $11.8 billion transportation bill, but the proposal is stalled in a House-Senate conference committee.

The spectre of a 70-cent bus and subway fare hangs over New York City unless Congress coughs up some money and the city finds at least $20 million in its overburdened budget.

A proposed Los Angeles County mass transit system was set back when voters defeated a proposition to increase county sales taxes by 1 per cent to help subsidize the system.

Even if the money problem is solved, mass transit proposals often get bogged down by disputes among local, state and federal authorities.

The new regional transportation authority to coordinate mass transit in Chicago and its suburbs is deadlocked in a city-suburban dispute over who will head the agency.

Controversy over the proposed "skybus" clouds the future of Pittsburgh's mass transit system.

Designed to transport outlying South Hills residents downtown, the program is embroiled in local and state politics.

The federal government gave the Allegheny County Port Authority an ultimatum to resolve the dispute or lose federal funds.

Chicago Transit Authority Chairman Milton Pikarksy posed this problem recently at a transportation planning conference:

"How do we effectively meet national goals, adhere to more specific state standards and still permit the local level of government to plan with a freedom from red tape or the danger of arbitrary rules imposed from upon high?"

Last winter's energy shortage boosted the number of bus and train passengers, but many lines are still underutilized.

San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto abandons his limousine on day a week and rides by bus to city hall in an effort to get more San Franciscans to ride city buses and trolleys.

Mass transit also must cope with crime in some cities. Chicago police reported robberies jumped 24.6 per cent in subway stations and on buses and trains.

Pittsburgh's bus and trolley ridership increased 12 per cent.

Starts tonight but talks go on

Coal strike may last 3 weeks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A top United Mine Workers official said today he expected the nationwide coal miners strike —which begins at midnight —to last for at least three weeks.

Union Vice President Mike Trbovich, commenting about the on-going negotiations for a new contract, said he expected the talks to take at least another three days and perhaps a week and a strike of three weeks was unavoidable.

Asked if there were hostilities between the union and management negotiators, Trbovich said there were coal miners on both sides of the table and "we understand each other." Most mines were already closed down today because of the Veterans Day holiday.

Government officials have estimated that if a strike lasts four weeks approximately 400,000 workers in industries that rely on coal —like the steel and auto industries —would be laid off. If a strike were to last for eight weeks an estimated 1.5 million workers would temporarily lose their jobs, the officials said.

Union officials earlier predicted it would take up to two weeks to ratify a new contract.

On Sunday, there were some encouraging developments during the negotiations.

The negotiations resumed at 11:45 a.m. EST.

"We settled, I think, one of the major areas of the contract," Guy Farmer, chief negotiator for the Bituminous Coal Operators Association said. Farmer did not say what dispute was resolved, but he indicated it was a non-economic issue.

Arnoid Miller, president of the 120,000 member United Mine Workers of America, said negotiators reached agreement on some issues.

"I think we're moving, I'm hopeful," he said. "We're getting closer. I think it's sort of a compromise on both sides."

"We continued to make progress," Farmer added. "That's the name of the game. I'm encouraged ... we settled a lot of differences. We're not too many days away from the settlement."

When an agreement is finally reached the union will conduct a massive conference in Pittsburgh, Pa., where it will brief representatives from about 800 union locals on terms of the pact.

MARKETS AGREE WITH CONSUMERS

Two supermarket chains in Omaha, Neb., Safeway and Baker's are siding with consumers on the escalating price of sugar. Stores have posted signs urging shoppers not to buy sugar, hoping to cut demand.

Arabs cut oil prices but we will pay more

ABU DHABI, United Arab Emirates (UPI) — Oil experts said today American consumers may wind up paying more for fuel despite the decision of three leading Arab petroleum states to cut prices.

Saudi Arabia, Qatar and the United Arab Emirates lowered the base price of petroleum Sunday, but corresponding tax and royalty increases threatened higher ultimate costs for energy users in the United States.

The three oil states said the complicated move was aimed at cutting oil company profits and warned consumers to prevent the firms from passing on the tax and royalty hikes.

"The matter is in the hands of the consumer himself, and he should vigilantly observe the actions of the companies," Manny Said Oteibeh, the United Arab Emirates oil minister, said.

The announcement of price cuts came at the end of a two-day meeting of six Persian Gulf oil states in Abu Dhabi, a tiny oil sheikhdom and capital of the United Arab Emirates.

Three of the gulf states — Iran, Iraq and Kuwait — opposed the price cut and said any change should be decided at next month's Vienna meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Oteibeh told a news conference Sunday Saudi Arabia, Qatar and the United Arab Emirates decided to lower the posted price of crude petroleum 40 cents from $11.65 to $11.25 a barrel.

He said, however, the three governments would raise royalties from 16.67 to 20 per cent of the posted price and increase taxes from 65.75 to 85 per cent of profits. The changes would run from Nov. 1, 1974, to July 31, 1975.

Oteibeh said the move was aimed at cutting the cost for consumers and reducing the "excessive" profits of the major international oil companies.

To almost everyone, today is Vets Day despite decree

By United Press International

Americans in many states celebrated Veteran's Day today, paying homage to the nation's war dead with parades and memorial services, although the federal holiday was officially observed Oct. 22.

New York is one of 41 states observing the holiday today, and a big parade was organized to march down New York City's Fifth Avenue to a service at the Eternal Light in a city park.

In Detroit, Neil Furton, a World War I veteran, was chosen to serve as grand marshal of the city's annual parade. Furton, 78, rejected the offer of a chauffered ride at the head of the 1¼-mile parade, and said he would walk, partly to remember the 116,000 Americans killed in the "war to end all wars."

"I'm walking," he said. "I figure I'm going to march as long as I can.

"The trouble is, I can't find anyone to walk with me."

Before the Korean War the holiday was called Armistice Day and applied specifically to men killed in World War I and World War II. Congress changed the name to Veterans Day in 1954 and made it apply to Americans killed in all wars.

More recently Congress changed the day from Nov. 11 to the fourth Monday in October so Americans would be guaranteed a three-day holiday weekend each year, but the American Legion says 41 states have chosen to keep the day Nov. 11 whether it falls on a Monday or not.

There has been some sentiment in Washington to change the holiday back to the traditional Nov. 11 date.

High court rules for MIA families, against car debtors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court held today that relatives of servicemen missing in action must be given notice before the men are declared dead. But the justices declined to overturn the entire law dealing with change of status.

In a brief order, without opinion, the Court affirmed a decision by a three-judge U.S. district court.

District Judge Charles M. Metzner, writing for the three-judge panel in New York last January, said the Defense Department must notify relatives in advance if it is considering changing the status of a missing serviceman, and give the relatives access to all evidence backing up a declaration of death.

In other action, the court:

—Dealt a blow to debtors when it upheld the right of creditors to repossess automobiles in the middle of the night without notice to the buyer.

—Refused to hear arguments by former presidential aide H.R. Haldeman that he and four co-defendants in the Watergate cover-up case were illegally indicted by the grand jury.

Auto layoffs hit 84,000; union VP calls it depression

DETROIT (UPI)—Auto industry layoffs soared past the 84,000 mark today with the layoffs of 22,525 Chrysler workers and the United Auto Workers union urged a strong government program to stave off a near-disaster economic situation.

"The auto industry is not in a recession," UAW Vice President Irving Bluestone said at a weekend news conference. "It's in a depression."

Of the 84,000 workers idled, 62,000 have been laid off indefinitely.

Bluestone said the layoff situation is "bordering on disaster."

About 40,000 workers at General Motors Corp. plants are already on indefinite layoffs with 8,400 idled at Ford Motor Co. and 17,800 at Chrysler Corp.

Bluestone, director of the union's GM department, attacked the Ford administration's economic efforts as "weak and inadequate."

Family feud leads to gunfight, man's death

A 27-year-old Mira Loma man was shot to death by sheriff's deputies answering a family fight call in the Covina area late Saturday night.

The victim, John David Hudak, 10491 S. Lynn Circle, was hit once in the head with a shot fired by a deputy armed with a .38-caliber revolver. Hudak was pronounced dead on arrival at Covina Inter-Community Hospital.

Hudak was shot after allegedly firing two shots at deputies who said Hudak managed to take an officers' revolver away during a scuffle on the front lawn at 17022 Bygrove Ave.

A sheriff's department spokesman today refused to name the deputies involved, saying it was policy not to reveal the names of officers in such incidents. However, a coroner's inquest was a possibility, and such hearings are open to the public.

The spokesman gave this account of the shooting:

Hudak was visiting at the home of his brother, David Hudak, 23, and got into a fight with David shortly before midnight.

David's wife, Barbara, 33, ran to a neighbor's house and called the sheriff's department. Two cars from the San Dimas station were sent and found John Hudak, intoxicated and belligerent, in the front yard.

When deputies attempted to question him he became "combative" and when they tried to restrain him he hit one deputy and grabbed another's revolver and fired. Then Hudak was shot.

Sheriff's homicide officers, investigating the shooting, said an autopsy was planned at the coroner's office today.

222,000 cancer victims will be saved in 1975

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Cancer Society says about 222,000 Americans will be saved from cancer in 1975. Another 111,000 will probably die who might have been saved through earlier and better treatment.

In a report titled "Facts and Figures, 1975," the society said lung cancer, the No. 1 cancer killer among American men, has moved up from fourth to third as a cancer killer of women.

In 1975, some 17,600 women are expected to die as a result of lung cancer —2,100 more than in 1974.

Breast cancer in 1975 will continue as the No. 1 cancer killer of women, with 33,000 deaths. This is the type of cancer that recently struck President Ford's wife, Betty, and vice president-designate Nelson Rockefeller's wife, Happy.

For both sexes, malignancies of the colon and rectum are the No. 2 cancer killers.

Authorities estimate heavy cigarette smoking causes at least 80 per cent of lung cancers.

"Facts and Figures" reiterates the society's main battle plan —early detection —in the war on cancer. Other highlights of the report:

—The survival rate in cancer is one in three. In the 1930s fewer than one in five were being saved. In the 1950s one in four was being saved. The gain to one in three means the saving of an additional 55,000 lives a year.

—The way statisticians figure it, of every six persons who get cancer today two will be saved and four will die. Nos. 1 and 2 will be saved. No. 3 will die but might have been saved with early diagnosis and prompt treatment. Nos. 4, 5 and 6 will die of cancer which cannot yet be controlled.

'New concept' in jails will be dedicated Friday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Bureau of Prisons will dedicate on Friday a new "spage age" jail that is anything but the average house of detention. It is a 22-story high-rise in downtown San Diego, Calif., cost nearly $15 million, and is as modern as day after tomorrow.

It has clear-as-glass plastic — a new substance tough as steel —over doors and windows instead of bars; electronic controls, and TV monitors. All of the windows are floor-to- ceiling slits just five inches wide —too narrow to squeeze through.

Attorney General William B. Saxbe will be the main speaker at the dedication service for the 14.8 million "metropolitan correctional center" for short term confinement. The average stay of inmates is expected to be two weeks.

Despite its official name the building's counterparts in county or local government are called jails. Until now the federal government has uniformly used them because it had no jails of its own. Now two additional high rises are being built, one in New York and one in Chicago.

"The whole attempt here was to try something new, different, innovative, so people housed in jail but still considered innocent (while awaiting trial) can use their time constructively, not just vegetate," Prison Director Norman A. Carlson said in an interview.

Carlson's "new concept" has nothing to do with the building's height, which was dictated by downtown land costs. The new concept is expressed in internal planning, he said.

"Most jails in the country have long corridors of cells where groups of eight or 10 are literally thrown together," he said. "Instead of this situation we have developed what we call the functional unit concept."

Each unit will have its own rooms or dormitory, visiting area, indoor recreation space and food service, he explained, and added:

"The majority of the inmates have individual rooms, very small. Don't get the idea this is a hotel-type room. But at least it is private so the inmate can get away from group pressures, and so forth," Carlson said.

The new jail will accomodate 500 prisoners, including persons awaiting trial, convicted prisoners serving terms of six months or less and inmates transferred from prisons so they can get outside jobs while completing the final weeks of their sentences.

Two underground floors and the first three above-ground floors will be used for services and administration. The entire third floor will be used for medical services. Two floors are reserved for women inmates, the rest for men.

A tunnel will connect the center with a new U.S. District Courthouse being built across the street so inmates on hand for trials can be conveyed to its courtrooms.

Warden James D. Williams, 34, a Bureau of Prisons career employe, will have a staff of 155 including professional staffs for the medical facility, a mental health facility, and a variety of educational and counseling programs.

24 retiring lawmakers get extra month's pay

Twenty-four retiring California lawmakers, including local area Assemblyman John Quimby, D-72nd Dist., will get an extra month's pay in December even though their services will be over by the end of this month.

The legislators will each receive $1,600 because of an oversight in the law that shortens their terms by one month but fails to cut off their pay.

Up to now, state legislators have been serving from January through December. However, two years ago the legislature shortened the terms for 1974 to cut the waiting time of those who are elected to office in November.

State legislators who were elected to other offices this month will receive double pay. This includes March Fong of Oakland and Kenneth Cory of Garden Grove who won election as secretary of state and state controller, respectively.

In the case of Quimby and 21 other legislators who retire Nov. 30, they will get a month's pay for December. Quimby's district, reapportioned effective at the end of this year, includes Upland.

Although Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger ruled that under the law the retiring legislators are entitled to the extra month's pay, they will not get the benefits of free office space, daily expenses which last year came to more than the salaries, telephone credit cards and state leased automobiles.

The loophole will cost taxpayers $38,400.

Out-of-control car crashes on freeway; 1 hurt

A 20-year-old Chino man was injured when he lost control of his car on the Pomona Freeway Saturday, and smashed into a center divider east of Brea Canyon Road in Diamond Bar.

California Highway Patrol officers said the car driven by Antonio M. Sanchez had a blowout, causing it to swerve into the divider fence at 1:05 a.m.

Sanchez suffered a shoulder injury, abrasions and possible fractures of both legs, officers added. He was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital and later was transferred to County-USC Medical Center.

Policemen help rescue 4 from apartment fire

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two policemen raced through a "mass of flames" early Sunday and rescued four persons — including a 3-day-old infant — from their fiery apartment and two other persons were rescued from the same apartment by firemen.

Police investigators Dan Tregarthen, 32, and Hector Zepeda, 30, were on patrol when they spotted the fire in the second story apartment.

The officers broke down the door of the building and raced through the flames to bring the four to safety.

"The carpet was on fire, the drapes, the walls, the sofa, everything," Tregarthen said. "It was a mass of flames."

The officers were treated for first and second degree burns on their hands and faces, and released from San Pedro Peninsula Hospital.

Police said Sheila Elerts, 15, was babysitting 3-day-old Tania Hughes, Donna Gablick, 7, and her brothers Sean, 3, and John, 12. John and Elena Hughes, 19, mother of the infant, were rescued by firemen.

Mrs. Hughes was in serious condition at Harbor General Hospital with first and second degree burns. John and Donna Gablick were hospitalized in fair condition. The other three were uninjured, police said.

The blaze was apparently caused by a smoulder cigarette, firemen said.

MODERN JAILHOUSE

The Bureau of Prisons will dedicate this new jail Friday. It is called a 'metropolitan correctional center' and will be used for short-term confinements in the San Diego area.

Two armed robberies work of one person?

Two armed robberies, one at a service station and the other at a market in Chino, Sunday night may have been carried out by the same person, according to police.

Police said the description of the robbers at the Phillips 66 Service Station at Riverside Drive and Central Avenue at 6:40 p.m. and the 7-11 Market at Riverside Drive and Ramona Avenue about 10:30 p.m. were similar and the robberies were carried out in much the same manner.

Police reported that a robber, described as a Caucasian, 35, with a slender build, walked into the 7-11 Market and handed clerk Shirley Hoefferly a note saying he was armed with a gun and wanted the money from the register. The robber took a small amount of cash and fled on foot west on Riverside Drive.

About four hours earlier Phillip's Service Station attendant Bill Brocksmit reported to police that a man walked into his station and told him he had a gun in his pocket and wanted all the money from the cash box. Brocksmit gave the robber the cash and he fled on foot. Brocksmit told officers the robber was a Caucasian, 28 to 35, 5 feet 11, 150 pounds and wearing a blue coat.

Neighbor and passersby help control $2,000 fire

A neighbor and two passersby helped control a fire at 279 E. Grove Ave. in Pomona Sunday afternoon until firemen arrived.

Ronald C. Maxwell, a neighbor of Frank Williams, who owns the residence in north Pomona, and Lewis Wilson of San Dimas and Dillard Jones of Pomona contained the fire with garden hoses until two engine companies, a truck unit and a rescue unit arrived at the scene at 4:29 p.m. Firemen then extinguished the flames within five minutes.

The brief blaze involved the kitchen area of the home, causing $2,000 damage to the structure and $500 loss to contents. The cause of the fire is under investigation.

Airline tickets, cash taken in burglary

Edward Portwood of 462 W. Arrow Highway in Upland reported to police that burglars broke into his home Saturday night or Sunday morning and made off with cash and airline tickets to Las Vegas, Dallas, Texas, and Detroit, Mich.

Youth injured by automobile

A 17-year-old Alta Loma youth was injured Saturday night when he was struck by a car in the eastbound lane of 15th Street near Mountain Avenue, police reported.

Mark Flynn Dennis of 9382 Hillside Cove, Alta Loma, was rushed to San Antonio Community Hospital by ambulance following the 10:52 p.m. accident. He was treated for minor injuries and released.

Police said Dennis apparently stepped out in front of a car driven by Randy Wayne Long, 17, of 8912 Felipe St., Montclair, traveling east on 15th Street.

Undercover officers patrol buses, arrest 35

LOS ANGELES (UPI,) — Undercover police officers rode Southern California Rapid Transit District buses Sunday and arrested 35 persons on charges ranging from disturbing the peace and marijuana possession to carrying a concealed weapon.

Police said the surveillance crackdown was due to last weekend's shooting death of Louis A. Aguilar, 23, who died aboard an RTD bus in south Los Angeles.

Eleven persons, believed to be members of the Crips Gang, have been arrested in connection with the shooting.

2 oil nations pledge aid to poor countries, if . . .

By WILBORN HAMPTON

ROME (UPI) — Libya and Kuwait, two of the world's major oil producing nations, today promised part of their petrodollars to buy fertilizer and bankroll agriculture investment for poor nations providing the superpowers halt their "spending on wars."

Libya and Kuwait presented their positions on the growing hunger crisis in the world to the 1,250 delegates at the World Food Conference.

Mohamed Ali Tabuo, Libya's Agriculture Minister, said Libya was ready "to allocate part of its oil income for international investment in agriculture projects of developing countries but only on condition that the big powers abandon their unlimited spending on wars."

Kuwait, which has the world's highest per capita income, pledged to donate 5,000 tons of fertilizers to developing nations and said it was ready to increase its contributions to financing agricultural projects.

The United States and other developed nations have partly blamed the world food crisis on oil price increases which have skyrocketed the price of fertilizer.

The Arab oil producers have denied the oil price hikes had anything to do with hunger.

As the conference went into its second half, the only point of agreement among the 130 nations attending was that there is, indeed, a hunger problem in the world.

Most nations have used the rostrum to defend their own national policies and point accusing fingers at political enemies since the talks began Nov. 5 with a speech by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

"We are getting nowhere fast," one conference official said. "Unless there is a dramatic about-face in the last days, there will be no decisions made and the conference will fail."

Political bickering has marred the conference from the opening day, when developed and developing countries clashed on the composition of committees, losing a full day in wrangling.

When the committee on increasing world food production finally met, delegates submitted 50 amendments to the original draft report.

Rather than debate all 50, the committee scrapped the entire report and started from scratch. Another day was lost.

About half the delegates have addressed the conference so far. But many delegation leaders have aleady flown home although the talks run until Saturday.

The U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization, sponsor of the conference, tried to make up for delays by scheduling day and night sessions last weekand. But low attendance killed the day sessions and cut the length of the night talks.

On Friday evening, debate was halted because a cocktail party outside the conference hall had drawn away most of the delegates.

In Cairo, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said the root of the world food problem is that developing countries are unable to meet their own needs and should be given assistance and incentives to do so.

Couple seriously injured when cycle is hit by car

A young Pomona man and woman, were injured seriously when their motorcycle was struck by a hit-run driver in Pomona late Saturday night.

The motorcycle was struck by a hit-run driver in Pomona late Saturday night.

The motorcycle driver, Jack E. Miller, 22, of 1710 Alameda St., suffered a compound fracture of his lower left leg, and other injuries, and was taken to County-USC Medical Center. His condition there was reported satisfactory.

His passenger, Jeanette E. Wells, 19, of 1178½ W. Sixth St., was admitted to Pomona Valley Community Hospital's intensive care unit. Her condition today was termed fair.

The accident occurred at White and Orange Grove avenues. Police reported the driver of the car turned left in front of the southbound motorcycle.

Witnesses said that after the impact the driver backed the steaming car away from the fallen motorcycle and drove away, westbound on Orange Grove Avenue. He apparently abandoned the auto in the 900 block after it stalled, officers said. A suspect vehicle, blood smeared over its front bumper, was impounded there.

Police traced the car to its registered owner but learned that he had moved from his residence in Montclair a month ago.

Trusty escapes from area jail

A 28-year-old convicted burglar on trusty status at the West End Jail was missing Sunday night, according to West End sheriff's deputies.

Loy Cyril Leffingwell, described as a Caucasian, 5 feet 6, 186 pounds, with brown hair, brown eyes and a mustache, serving a one-year county jail term, was last seen in the office area of the West End sheriff's office about 6 p.m. on work detail as a trusty.

Deputies said that earlier Sunday Leffingwell visited with his wife who had come to the jail. Both Leffingwell and his wife are being sought by detectives investigating the escape.

The Devil's Ring marking decade of quality drama

By DELBERT KOHEL
Pomona Reporter

The Devil's Ring at Pomona High School is preparing to launch its 1974-75 season and at the same time celebrate 10 years of successful drama.

Today 1974-75 season patron cards will go on sale at the school for one week. Two hundred cards are available at $5 for adults and $2.50 for children and students with ASB cards.

Students and interested residents may contact the Devil's Ring box office for cards by calling 623-5251, Ext. 370.

For every card purchased on Tuesday, John Alberts, theater producer and adviser, will don track clothes and run one minute that afternoon in front of students on campus. If all 200 cards are sold, he will run nonstop 3 hours and 20 minutes.

Purchase of a card will admit the bearer to three major productions, "Godspell" in December, "Butterflies Are Free" in February and "The Odd Couple" in May, plus any other performances in the theater.

Holders of cards will get preferred seating. They will be named as supporters of the theater. In the event of special performances, card holders will be notified first.

Shotguns and rifles stolen at mall shop

Four shotguns and two rifles were taken in a burglary Saturday night at the Rod, Gun and Hobby Shop, 353 Pomona Mall East.

Police said the thief used a piece of steel to smash a door and then used a baseball bat he found in the store to break gun display cases.

THEATRICAL RUN

John Alberts, Pomona High School's theater producer and drama adviser, gets in shape for the marathon race he faces if 200 season patron cards to the campus' Devil's Ring Theater are sold. He'll run one minute for each sale, Alberts said.

Weekend bombings from coast to coast

Anti-Arabs in L.A.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A caller said the bombing of the United Nations Association book store and information center Sunday was a "thankyou" message for allowing the Palestine Liberation Organization to address the United Nations.

Police said the blast, which occurred about 2:45 a.m. PST, caused about $5,000 damage to the store and blew out plate glass windows in three nearby businesses.

There were no injuries.

Investigators said a male caller telephoned radio station KFWB and the Los Angeles Times shortly after the blast to take responsibility for the explosion, but authorities said they could not determine if the message was a warning to, or from, the PLO.

"The United Nations office at 3722 (wrong address) W. 8th St. was hit and it is a thank-you message from the PLO," the caller said.

"The message is for letting them address the U.N. Never again!"

PLO leader Yasser Arafat is scheduled to address the U.N. General Assembly Wednesday during a debate on the Palestine issue.

The "never again" slogan is commonly used by the militant Jewish Defense League, but a spokeswoman at the JDL headquarters here said, "We did not do it and we do not know who did it, but we are not going to lose any sleep over it. We applaud the act."

SCATTERED BOOKS

Woman employe at UN Bookstore in Los Angeles sorts through salvagable books strewn on sidewalk after early morning blast Sunday at store. Anti-Arab group claims credit for bombing.

Anti-Castro in Capital

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A group of anti-Castro Cubans has taken credit for the Saturday night bombing of the Organization of American States headquarters, but the FBI says it has never heard of them.

The bomb exploded on top of a second floor telephone booth near the offices of OAS Secretary General H.E. Galo Plaza, causing an estimated $50-75,000 damage.

Two men were in the basement of the building but neither was hurt.

A few hours after the explosion rocked the ornate building two blocks from the White House, an unidentified man telephoned UPI and claimed responsibility for the attack.

"This is an answer to the reestablishment of diplomatic relations with Cuba." he said. "We are the Cuban Movement C-4. We are for a free Cuba. Long live a free Cuba. Down with the Communists and down with all members of OAS who support Cuba —they are traitors."

OAS foreign ministers are meeting in Quito, Ecuador, to vote on ending 10 years of economic and political sanctions against Cuba. Last week, bombs exploded at the Bolivian embassy and the Brazilian cultural center in Quito and a third was discovered at the Paraguayan embassy.

The FBI, which is investigating the bombing, said Sunday it had no suspects and had never heard of the Cuban Movement C-4.

Ford heartened by Kissinger soiree

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford, overflowing with praise for Henry A. Kissinger, got his first briefing on the Secretary of State's diplomatic trip in which he may have reached a breakthrough on limiting nuclear weapons.

"Let me just thank you very much, Henry, for a great job for us as Americans and for me personally," said Ford, standing before his helicopter in the autumn night. "Thank you very, very much."

Ford personally welcomed Kissinger to his Camp David, Md., retreat Sunday afternoon and got a three-hour briefing Another meeting with Kissinger led today's staff meetings.

Reporters were called to the White House Sunday night for an announcement as soon as Ford's helicopter returned. Kissinger, the President said, "reviewed the 17 countries on a backbreaking 17-day trip and I can say on the basis of his analysis that it was basically encouraging.

"The meeting with (Soviet leader Leonid I.) Brezhnev was very helpful; from the various capitals that the secretary stopped in the Middle East, I think he also brought back some encouraging news. The trips that he made to the Subcontinent were very helpful in redirecting our policies in that vitally important area of the world."

President should admit recession--Scott

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Senate minority leader Hugh Scott today said he believes the United States is in a recession and he does not understand why the White House is reluctant to admit it.

"I think that one can only candidly say that we are in a recession," Scott said in an interview in the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.

"I can't quite understand the White House reluctance to actually call this what it is," Scott told the Post-Gazette. "I think the sooner we admit it's a recession the earlier we have a chance to get out of it, because the existence of the fact presents the necessity for the solutions."

Scott, who celebrates his 74th birthday anniversary today, said if President Ford and Congress successfully cooperate on the problem "we should see the rate of inflation fall from 11½ per cent perhaps to 8 or 8½ per cent sometime in the third quarter of next year."

Vice presidential confirmation in jeopardy

Rocky first witness at Wednesday hearings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nelson A. Rockefeller appears before the Senate Rules Committee this week to discuss the nearly $2 million he gave to political associates and a campaign biography of an opponent —two issues which have threatened his confirmation as vice president.

The once "safe" nomination of the Rockefeller, 66, is believed in jeopardy.

Televised hearings open Wednesday and Rockefeller is the first of 15 witnesses. His brother Laurance, who said he paid $60,000 to finance the book about Arthur Goldberg, and others connected with the book also will testify.

Goldberg, also listed as a witness, ran against Rockefeller for governor of New York in 1970. Victor Lasky's derogatory book was published and distributed as a campaign document. Rockefeller said he had no knowledge of his brother's involvement, but now has assumed full responsibility for it.

The House Judiciary Committee is expected to hold its own hearings after Congress returns next week.

A number of past and present Rockefeller lawyers are on the witness list, and they may be questioned about the family fortune.

Rockefeller has provided considerable detail about his immediate family which has $218 million, mostly in trusts, but he has not given any details of the family's wealth, said to exceed $1 billion.

A number of senators are particularly anxious to question William J. Ronan, head of the New York-New Jersey Port authority, who received $625,000 —most in the form of loans which Rockefeller later forgave.

Also scheduled to testify is former Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson, who got an $84,000 loan from Rockefeller and paid it back before joining the Eisenhower administration.

Energy czar appointment still in doubt

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Andrew E. Gibson, whose controversial nomination as federal energy administrator is in jeopardy, attended a White House meeting today of the Federal Energy Resources Council.

Also attending the meeting were Interior Secretary Rogers, C.B. Morton and Frank Zarb, executive director of the council and associate director of the Office of Management and Budget. White House officials consider Zarb the leading contender for the FEA post, if Gibson's nomination does not go through.

Gibson, who was nominated for the FEA job to replace John Sawhill, also was at the White House Saturday, according to informed sources. On Friday he met with White House officials in two separate meetings as reports circulated that his nomination was in trouble.

Israel devalues pound 43 per cent

By THOMAS ACKERMAN

TEL AVIV (UPI) — The government stuck to its hardline austerity policy today in the face of street riots protesting devaluation of the Israeli pound and an overnight 17 per cent hike in the cost of living.

Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin said the tough economic package, highlighted by a 43 per cant devaluation, marked only the start of a long-range program to end the drain on Israel's dollar reserves and stave off mass unemployment.

Government economists estimated the initial measures, including tax increases an da six-month ban on luxury imports, would save $700 million in foreign reserves but would lower the standard of living by only 3 to 4 per cent.

Workers in the Mediterranean port cities of Haifa and Ashdod planned a one-hour work stoppage today to protest price increases for 14 subsidized foods.

Union leaders said low-income families were hit hardest and vowed they would press for a 30 per cent increase in cost of living allowances to soften the blow.

Stone-throwing demonstrators protesting the large food price hikes smashed shop windows and looted a slum area Sunday night on the outskirts of Tel Aviv. The protesters turned over buses and cars.

Police said helmeted patrolmen carrying clubs and plexiglass shields arrested 32 rioters. No serious injuries were reported.

The protesters turned over buses and hurled rocks in Tel Aviv's Hatikva slum quarter. No serious injuries were reported.

Rabin, in a radio and television broadcast, said the austerity moves were unavoidable and would affect all income groups.

HURRIED SHOPPERS

Tel Aviv housewifes stock up on food at supermarket in an effort to beat the 43-per cent pound devaluation Sunday. They bought out several stores before prices were hiked.

WORLDWIDE BRIEFS

Berlin terrorism

BERLIN (UPI) — The West German government offered a $20,000 reward today for information concerning a West German band of urban guerrillas who killed West Berlin's chief justice and threatened assassinations in six other cities.

West German Interior Minister Werner Maihofer described the slaying as a cowardly murder and said the government would pay $20,000 for information leading to an arrest. In addition to Maihofer's offer, West Berlin police put up a reward of $2,000.

Police said five men, one carrying a bunch of red carnations, went to the home of Guenter von Drenkmann, president of West Berlin's Supreme Court, Sunday night and told him through a slit in the door that they were bringing flowers for his 64th birthday.

Von Drenkmann opened the door, a scuffle broke out and shots were fired, police said. The men fled to two waiting automobiles and sped off, according to two witnesses.

Thailand riot

BANGKOK (UPI) — Guards at Thailand's Lard Yao prison today opened fire on 3,000 inmates who staged a demonstration to demand general amnesty.

A UPI photographer said as many as 30 prisoners may have been wounded.

The demonstration was held to protest a government decision not to grant amnesty in honor of the promulgation of Thailand's new constitution in October. A similar demonstration was conducted at Bangkok's other prison, Bang Kwang, for the same purpose.

Mideast showdown

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Officials at the United Nations today made complex security arrangements for this week's visit to the General Assembly by Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat.

U.N. and American officials say neither the visit of Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev to the U.N. nor the appearance there of Cuba's Fidel Castrol created as big a headache as the expected arrival Wednesday of Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization delegation.

PLO participation in the U.N. debate sparked a massive demonstration by a coalition of Jewish organizations outside the U.N. earlier this month and the PLO office in New York was firebombed on another occasion.

U.S. and PLO officials have been unable to agree on where the Palestinians will stay for the seven-day U.N. session. American officials pressed the Palestinians to accept the Governor's Island Coast Guard station off lower Manhattan.

Angola bloodbath

LUANDA, ANGOLA (UPI) — Forty-eight persons were killed and more than 100 injured in new rioting Sunday night among three rival groups of black freedom fighters, hospital sources said today.

Three white civilians and a Portuguese soldier were killed in a night of street shootings and stabbings, military sources said.

Three rival Black nationalist parties have established their headquarters in the Angolan capital in the past week and the sources attributed the unrest to battles among the factions.

Ulster unrest

BELFAST (UPI) — Protestant gunmen killed four Roman Catholics during a weekend of violence climaxed by a gunbattle between rival factions of the illegal Irish Republican Army, police said.

In the County Tyrone town of Cookstown, more than 400 residents spent the night in emergency accomodation after being evacuated from their homes because of a bomb scare.

Soviet Phht-nik

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union has suffered a new setback in its trouble-plagued space program.

The official Tass news agency said Sunday the latest mishap came Nov. 6, when the Soviets landed an unmanned vehicle on the moon to collect rock samples.

Tass said Luna 23, the first Soviet space craft to attempt a moon landing in nearly two years, was damaged on impact and failed to carry out its mission.

Venezuelan oil

CARACAS (UPI) — The Venezuelan government is contemplating a new tax increase against U.S. and other foreign oil companies that handle the country's 3 million barrel per day production, the Caracas newspaper El Nacional said today.

In a front-page story, El Nacional said that sources in the Mines and Finance Ministries as well as the Central Bank reported that a new tax hike was being considered in view of profits expected to be made by oil companies in the final quarter of the year.

Football hero

Blame Hollywood for gridiron setbacks

LITTLE ROCK (UPI) — The Rice University football team took in a gory movie the night before their game against Arkansas and the resulting nightares apparently affected the Owls on the field.

"It's gross," said Rice punter Mike Landrum of "The Texas Chainsaw Massacre," which the Owls took in Friday night. "It made me sick. About half the team walked out of it. I was one of them. I couldn't sleep a wink all night long."

He dropped the ball in the end zone Saturday, leading to an Arkansas score in the Razorbacks' 25-6 win.

Asked at his Sunday news conference if his players had similar experiences, Coach Frank Broyles said, "We used to put a great deal of stock in the type of movie we saw but you don't have much choice anymore, particularly in a small town where there might be just one movie."

Prior to Arkansas' game with Texas A and M last week, the Razorbacks saw Andy Warhol's "Frankenstein" movie. "It was the only one in town,"

Broyles said. Arkansas lost 20-10.

Hammond

Egan

Alaska governor

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — Nearly a week after the general election, Alaska voters still aren't sure who their next governor will be.

Republican Jay Hammond led Democratic Gov. William A. Egan by 563 votes Sunday, but about 1,000 questioned ballots were still uncounted.

Returns from all of the sprawling state's 434 precincts gave Hammond 43,164 votes to 42,601 for Eagan.

Desert Fox's son

STUTTGART, West Germany (UPI) — Manfred Rommel, son of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, the "Desert Fox" of the Nazi Afrika Korps in World War II, won a plurality of votes in his bid to become mayor of Stuttgart Sunday. But because he did not win a majority, there will be a runoff election Dec. 1.

Rommel, who was running on the Christian Democratic party ticket, polled 44.2 per cent of the vote. The Social Democratic candidate, Peter Conradi, got 31.2 per cent.

Buckley sees Red

MOSCOW (UPI) — Sen. James Buckley, C-R-N.Y., wants the United States to monitor Soviet emigration policies. Buckley met Sunday with dissident physicist Andrei D. Sakharov, who has been campaigning in Russia for free emigration.

The two men discussed the reported agreement by the Kremlin to relax emigration bars in exchange for better trade status with the United States.

"What is needed is some kind of Congressional mechanism to monitor the extra-official news about emigration from the Soviet Union," Buckley said.

Solshenitsyn

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Exiled Soviet author Alexander I. Solshenitsyn will travel to Stockholm to accept his 1970 Nobel prize for literature Dec. 10, the Swedish Academy of Letters announced today.

Solshenitsyn, who will be 56 on Dec. 11, refused to attend the 1970 ceremonies because of fear of not being allowed to come back to the Soviet Union.

Socialist art

MOSCOW (UPI) — President Nikolai V. Podgorny declared Sunday night that any art that departs at all from the principles of Socialist realism would be considered "inadmissible" by the Kremlin.

"Just as in ideology in general, the slightest departure from our principles is inadmissible in any kind of art," he said.

He said he was referring to the "principles of the art of Socialist realism, tested by time and experience."

Miami Beach mopping up oil spill

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Authorities said clean-up crews would complete eradication today of an oil spill from beaches along this resort city's posh hotel strip.

A Coast Guard spokesman said it appeared the oil had stopped coming ashore Sunday.

Source of the thick, tar-like crude oil remained undetermined. There has been speculation that it might have come from a tanker flushing its tanks in the Gulf Stream; that it may have leaked from a tanker sunk in World War II, or that it was the result of natural release from deposits below the sea bottom.

A Coast Guard spokesman said "it appears to be old oil and it may have come from a variety of sources."

The Coast Guard sent samples of the oil to a laboratory for analysis in an attempt to determine the source.

The oil, mixed with floating seaweed, was first spotted Friday morning in the Gulf Stream off Miami's government cut. Seven-foot seas prevented its containment, and Friday night it began floating to shore.

Atlantic Ocean beaches were contaminated from the 79th St. Causeway as far north as Hallandale.

Long miners strike could trigger massive layoffs

LAST in a SERIES

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Indications are electric utilities have enough coal to survive a miners' strike of at least two months duration. But a strike could cause general unemployment to rise, especially in this area where coal-related industries are prevalent.

The utilities say that even if the strike should reach beyond their estimates, the very lack of coal would cause layoffs in big coal-consuming industries and a lower demand —and this means more coal would be available to heat America's homes, or to generate electricity to do so.

The best illustration is the steel industry, which currently is experiencing a boom in an otherwise flat economy. The No. 1 steelmaker, U.S. Steel Corp., needs electricity for only 4 per cent of its power needs. It uses coal for two thirds of its energy requirements.

U.S. Steel, like most other steel firms, says it has 20 to 30 days' reserves of coal.

"But because of the nature of coking ovens," said company spokesman Andy Staursky, "we can't just operate up until the last shovelful is gone. You've got to keep those ovens hot or they'll cave in and that would cost millions of dollars."

If the strike goes much more than two weeks, U.S. Steel plans a 50 per cent cutback in operations "down the line."

"We will slow down the production of coke, which slows down the production of coke gas, which is used as energy in reheating furnaces at several of our plants. That would curtail the making of iron, which would curtail the making of steel, which would mean nothing for the rolling mills, where we use most of our electric power."

Of the 609 million tons of coal consumed last year, 64 per cent was used by the utilities, 16 per cent by the steel companies, 10 per cent by other industries, 9 per cent was exported and 1 per cent was retailed to the consumer.

Bill Ott of the Duquesne Light Co., one of Pennsylvania's largest electrical producers, said the utility is counting on a curtailment by U.S. Steel and other industrial customers to leave more coal for residential customers in the event of a miners' strike.

"I don't think we have a magical switch," Ott said. "We send out power and anybody can take it off the lines. We would have to go out and physically cut lines if it got to an either-or situation."

Just who would get power if it came down to that would be decided by the Federal Power Commission and the state utility commissions, Ott said.

"Big customers have their own lines and we do have some control over the larger power lines. It would be simpler to restrict power to larger users than a whole number of smaller users.

"And we don't know when somebody might say, 'I have an iron lung in my house and if you cut off the power I'm going to die.'"

Duquesne Light, which has a 63-day coal reserve, produces 92 per cent of its electricity by burning coal, about 12,000 tons per day.

The steel industry is pivotal to the problem in another sense, because within the industry itself there will be extensive layoffs if and when production is cut back.

Republic Steel of Cleveland estimates that of 10,000 Cleveland area employes, about 7,000 will be laid off when the firm banks its furnaces.

Steel industry sources say the demand for steel is dizzying, partly because the energy squeeze has produced more exploration and drilling for natural gas and oil, requiring more and more machinery.

A cutback would not only hinder energy source exploraton, but affect the auto, appliance, hardware and electronics industries, plus an assortment of lesser companies with smaller demands for steel.

Economist Norman Robertson of the Mellon Bank says Pittsburgh will bear the greatest burden of a miners' strike because of its heavy concentration of coal-related industries.

"The unemployment rate in this area (now 6 per cent) could go up to 15 or 20 per cent in a long strike," Robertson said. "It would clearly hit the steel industry hard."

Robertson compared the situation here with Great Britain in the first part of this year, when a coal mine strike plunged the British economy into its bleakest period ever.

"I don't see why it can't get as bad as England, but it can be argued that we are not quite so dependent on coal," he said.

On the other hand, the layoff of thousands of steelworkers would produce a "multiplier effect" which would stun other industries, he said.

Church offers erotic films

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An erotic film festival will be held this month by a Church.

Amateur and professional sex films and videotapes will be shown at the festival Nov. 20-23 after being viewed by a panel of judges including Edith Kramer, former curator of the San Francisco Museum of Art, and Erwin Haeberle, author of "The Sex Atlas."

The festival is sponsored by the Genesis Church and Ecumenical Center, which operates the National Sex Forum and the Museum of Erotic Art where the festival will be held. The church furnishes sex films to medical schools, the state of California and sex education groups.

Russ claim U.S. elections show discontent with GOP

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union's government-controlled newspapers said that the U.S. election results reflected disillusionment with the Republicans rather than enthusiasm for the Democrats.

The Government newspaper, Izvestia, said voters were influenced by Watergate and the economy.

"The results reflect discontent with the ailing economy, with inflation and with growing unemployment. They reflect fears that the present economic recession will develop into a true crisis," Izvestia said.

Describing the Watergate affair as "a symbol of political corruption," Izvestia's Washington correspondent, Stanislav Konfrashov, said "On the eve of the elections, scepticism of Americans. This was manifested in the pathy of the voters.

"Despite noisy calls for civic consciousness, it proved impossible to rouse voters into activity."

The Communist party newspaper Pravda said "The results cannot be regarded as an expression of broad support for the Democratic party."

Ivestia said the vote was "not so much for as against."

Insights on campus today

Tenure is a four-letter word. Don't count. Just take my word for it.

Tenure, as it applies to the academic community, has come to mean a certain golden state of grace in which a teacher finds himself after he has managed to stay in one place for a specified length of time.

Once having arrived at the predetermined period of service at a given institution, a teacher is said to be "tenured."

What it means in general terms is that said teacher, once tenured, will not be fired for anything much less than the commission of a heinous crime and is even less likely to be held responsible for crimes of omission.

All who have studied the problem agree that tenure began as a good and necessary thing, and in a few institutions may still be functioning effectively. Tenure serves to protect teachers from incompetent, capricious, or in some cases bigoted administrators and biased boards of trustees.

Cloaked in academic rhetoric, tenure was related to academic freedom, which all agree is the very heart of quality teaching and learning.

Unfortunately, tenure, like many other inflexible pronouncements, has suffered by its rigidity and poor administration.

Architects have learned to make buildings earthquake resistant by allowing them to shake, rattle and roll. They learned this when unyielding stiffeners caused old buildings to crumble and cave in on themselves.

In much the same manner, tenure threatens many educational institutions today.

Let's look at an example, hypothetical only in that we will not use real names. Sample College, as we shall call it, grew and prospered from 1945 to 1970. Student enrollment steadily increased and funds were sufficient if not plentiful. Teachers were hired and maintained, with many achieving tenure (just on the basis of length of service).

In about 1970, Sample College began to experience a decline in enrollment, reflecting a national trend. Cutbacks were necessary. Faculty payroll (normally a large portion of the budget) seemed a logical place to look.

Who could be released? Only those "probationary" teachers who had not yet gained tenure. More bad times. More cutbacks. Now, it's 1975, and where does Sample College find itself?

Well, over 90 per cent of the Sample faculty now has tenure. The average age of the faculty has risen dramatically at what seems to be the very time when there is the greatest need for professors who understand today's youth — who are open and flexible enough to relate to students and influence their behavior, goals and aspirations.

If we are to represent Sample College as being truly typical, we must duly report the presence of one or more tenured teachers who are incompetent and not doing their job.

In these instances, the Sample College president and its board of trustees are forced to maintain the incompetent on the payroll.

If possible, they try to put that person in a position where he or she will do the least harm, but the pay will be the same as that of his or her colleagues, who will be seen to shake their heads slowly when his name comes up.

Tenure Developed and initially implemented to protect teachers from unreasonable behavior by administrators for the good of the institution and education in general, tenure has come to connote the antithesis of its original intent.

It seems reasonable to assume that the next couple of years will see an accelerated search for an equitable solution to the problem of tenure.

Responsible trustees, administrators and faculty should be equally concerned.

Audubon's hometown

St. Francisville, built on the crest of a ridge near the Mississippi River, has been called the town "two miles long and two yards wide" because of its original geologic setting, according to the Louisiana Tourist Commission. John James Audubon lived, taught and painted many of his "Birds of America" in the immediate area.

West German law puts new emphasis on coal

BONN (UPI) — The West German parliament has approved a new energy law designed to reduce the country's dependence on oil but bringing increases in electricity rates.

The law now goes to the upper house for ratification.

The law will make power plants more dependent on home-mined hard coal and allows the building of oil-powered electricity plants only in exceptional cases.

The increased use of coal, according to Economics Minister Hans Friderichs, will boost the consumer's bill by up to 4 per cent. Friderichs estimated this at 30 cents per average household per month.

Despite the energy crisis, Friderichs said West Germany has been able to stockpile 25 million tons of oil, a record reserve.

This meant, he said, that if the oil supply was cut, Germany would have 69 days of gasoline, 80 days of light heating oil and diesel fuel and 83 days of heavy heating oil in reserve. This did not include the "exceptionally high amounts" of oil and coal being stored by consumers, he said.

The law contains these main points:

—"The share of petroleum in the supply of primary energy is to be reduce from 55 per cent to about 44 per cent by 1985."

—"Speedier expansion of energy-producing installations in the Federal Republic of Germany while paying heed to environment protection requirements."

—Decreased energy consumption by more rationalized usage.

—"Improvement of crisis management, especially by building up more reserves so as to be able to cope better with temporary shortages of oil imports."

The law called for "intensive efforts toward far-ranging cooperation among consumer countries in order to find solutions to global oil-marker problems in an international framework."

The law succeeds one passed a year ago, and provides more leeway for mastering a crisis related to energy, the government said.

Milk price hikes seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Milk production is down in 1974, and Agriculture Department economists predicted today that prices will be going up.

A Dairy Situation Summary said milk production in 1974 now is expected to total about 114.5 billion pounds, down 1 per cent from 1973.

This is less of a decline than the 1.5 per cent that had been predicted, but milk production this year will still fall to the lowest level since 1948 and probably will decline again next year.

For consumers, the economists predicted retail prices for milk and other dairy products probably will be rising seasonally through the closing months of 1974, but not as rapidly as they rose last fall and winter.

Retail prices for milk declined in September, but prices for all dairy products rose slightly. They had declined this summer for the first time in nearly two years.

Brown may face same problem as Reagan dealing with legislature

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — One of Ronald Reagan's biggest problems as governor of California was dealing with the Democrat-dominated state legislature. But liberal Democrat Jerry Brown, the new governor, may have the same problem.

Happy as most of the Democratic legislators were to see the governor's chair change hands after eight years marked by frequent vetoes of Democratic spending bills, Brown was not popular with the lawmakers.

He came to power outside the legislature, working his way up from college trustee to secretary of state.

He made his own name in that position by revitalizing its electoral and campaign law functions, alienating legislators by squeezing out data on their political finances and appearing to argue that they could be easily bought.

He championed a successful reform initiative aimed at restricting lobbyist-paid lunches for legislators to "two hamburgers and a Coke," in his words.

Brown is regarded as aloof, ascetic and a Jesuit-trained intellectual, not "one of the boys."

A wave of Democratic victories has increased the Democratic hold on the legislature, with 55 of 80 seats in the Assembly and 25 of 39 in the Senate — enough to push through its own programs or kill Brown's.

"This is going to be his real test," said state Sen. George Zenovich, chairman of the Democratic caucus in the Senate.

"He's going to have to make some inroads on a personal basis."

"I don't think anything will carry over from the past," said Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills, a Democrat. "The legislature will respond to what he does now."

Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy said he was willing to "work on a constructive and cooperative basis with him," warning, "but he now will have to develop a relationship with the legislature in a much more direct and personal way."

Brown's hand may also be weakened by his unexpectedly narrow margin of victory — 51 per cent, the smallest of any statewide Democratic winner and far short of the triumph his supporters and the polls predicted.

Brown appeared to react recently by moving even further toward the center, saying he would appoint compatible Republicans and businessmen to posts in his administration.

"It's pretty clear to me, reading those election returns, that the people are skeptical of government. They're not giving the Democratic party a blank check," Brown said.

He added that Californians are looking for a new spirit in government "but they don't want to pay a lot of taxes for it."

Skiing film scheduled in Ontario

"The Color of Skiing," a feature length film by Warren Miller, will be shown at 8:30 p.m. Saturday in Spring Auditorium, Ontario, as a benefit for the Far West Ski Association.

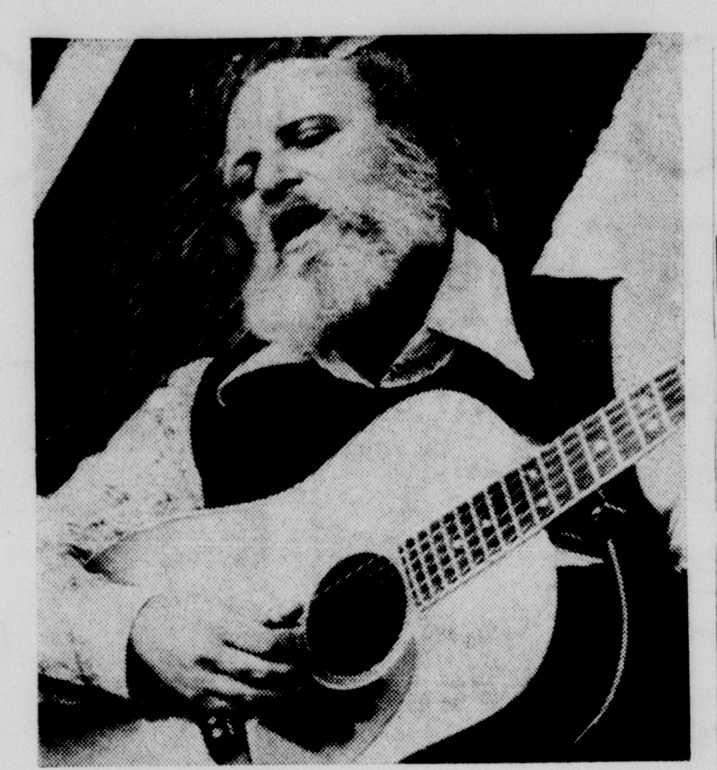
Tickets are $2.50 in advance, through Mutual and Liberty agencies, and $3 at the box office on the evening of the screening.

The movie shows slalom, giant slalom and downhill at Copper Mountain, Colo., and an explanation of the development of skis and boots in scenes at San Valley, Idaho.

Other sites shown in the film are Snow Valley; Telluride, Colo.; Whistler Mountain, British Columbia, Mammoth and others. In scenes at three French valleys—Courcheval, Meribel and La Menuire—the camera shows 145 different lifts and 185 ski instructors on the screen at one time.

Close quarters

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If all the world's 3,800,000,000 people were six feet tall, one-and-a-half feet wide, and one foot thick, the entire human population could be packed into a cube-like box measuring only 3,245 feet—or two-thirds of a mile—along each side, says the National Geographic Society.



PERFORMING AT POLY — David Baumgarten, nationally known folksinger, will perform at the University Union of Cal Poly at 8 p.m. Nov. 22. Also taking part in the show will be Cal Poly singers and musicians. Baumgarten is a graduate of the University of Redlands and a former member of the Roger Wagner Chorale. Tickets for the concert are $1.

Folksinger to play at Cal Poly Union

Concert folksinger David Baumgarten will headline a musical program in the University Union at Cal Poly at 8 p.m. Nov. 22. Tickets are $1.

Also scheduled to perform are Shelley Hettema, guitarist; folksinger Mari Jo Anderson, and the folk-rock trio, The Sage. Choral students at Cal Poly will join Baumgarten in a selection of sea chanties.

Baumgarten is a native of Monterey, a graduate of the University of Redlands and a former member of the Roger Wagner Chorale. Before taking up folksinging, he was a director-producer and presented 25 professional shows in Los Angeles. He has been artist-inresidence at 20 colleges and iniversities.

Baumgarten's music ranges from sea chanties to the gentle songs of Bob Dylan, Joni Mitchell, John Denver and Woody Guthrie. His latest album is "Songs and Stories Around Steinbeck's Cannery Row." After a recent performance, the Associated Press said Baumgarten is "in the front row of American folksingers."

New Approach

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new approach to higher education — combining vacation with college study at a mountain resort — will be introduced in January by Adelphi University, Garden City, N. Y.

The winter educational-vacation will use mountain resorts in Ellenville, N.Y. for a campus.

Why Do You Have A Poor Memory

A noted publisher in Chicago reports there is a simple technique for acquiring a powerful memory which can pay you real dividends in both business and social advancement and works like magic to give you added poise, necessary self-confidence and greater popularity.

According to this publisher, many people do not realize how much they could influence others simply by remembering accurately everything they see, hear, or read. Whether in business, at social functions or even in casual conversations with new acquaintances, there are ways in which you can dominate each situation by your ability to remember.

To acquaint the readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing skill in remembering anything you choose to remember, the publishers have printed full details of their self-training method in a new booklet, "Adventures in Memory," which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. No obligation. Send your name, address, and zip code to: Memory Studies, 555 E. Lange St., Dept. 510-74, Mundelein, Ill. 60060. A postcard will do.

Britons will get bad news Tuesday

LONDON (UPI) — Britons are getting set for bad news Tuesday. The only question is: Just how bad will it be?

Tuesday afternoon, Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey will present Parliament a year-end crisis budget.

All indications are that it will hurt.

"There will be howls of anguish," Healey himself has warned.

"Sacrifices will be asked for from the many who are able to afford them," House of Commons leader Edward Short said last week.

Just how tough those "sacrifices" are will not be known until Healey has sat down at the end of a speech likely to last at least two hours.

British budgets are always top secret until they have been announced in Parliament. But there have been plenty of advance storm warnings of new soak-the-rich tax hikes and drastic pruning of public spending.

Britain's annual budgets usually are handed to Parliament in March or April. But Healey has to produce an interim budget to deal with what the government has called Britain's gravest economic crisis since the end of World War II and perhaps since the great depression of the 1930s.

The country's foreign business is estimated to be $9.4 billion in the red as a result of rocketing oil bills and slumping foreign trade.

The government's own finances are equally deep in the red.

High interest rates have hit industry and business hard, threatening mass bankruptcies and, perhaps, up to one million jobless this winter.

These are just some of the problems the Labor Party government is trying to tackle following its narrow victory in the Oct. 10 national elections.

Healey has been under heavy pressure from both industry and trade unions to do something to get the country's crisis-ridden economy back on the rails.

The Confederation of British Industry, which represents the nation's major industrial firms, has told Healey that business will need $6.4 billion in tax cuts and easing of price curbs this year and another $7.8 billion next year.

The 10 million-member Trades Union Congress demands a $4.7 billion shot-in-the-arm for industry through easing of price controls. It also has called for new pension hikes for retired Britons.

Healey has been listening to all this and plenty of other advice.

"But don't imagine I'm a sucker for all the various pressures which are put on me," he told a group of Labor Party lawmakers.

In fact, although economists predict Healey will do as much as he can to boost industry, he also is likely to wield the crisis ax heavily in other directions. The government is planning to slash defense spending by around $540 million.

Short told Parliament last week, "When I talk of sacrifices, I don't just mean sacrifices for the individual." He said the economy ax also will fall on public works projects, universities, art galleries, theaters and ballet companies.

"The burden must be and will be spread fairly," he said.

By 12:30 p.m. EST Tuesday, when Healey finishes speaking, Britain will know just how bad the news is.

Unless advance predictions have been sadly wrong, Britons will be in for several years of belt-tightening austerity.

East L.A. vote reflected fear of financial burden

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — It was the fear by homeowners of the financial burden of supporting a city government that defeated a measure to incorporate east Los Angeles, proponents of cityhood said.

The measure, Prop. X, was defeated 58 per cent to 42 per cent.

"The people voted their pocketbooks," a supporter of the measure said of the residents in the 6.5-square-mile section of county territory east of the downtown area.

Proponents of the measure had argued that a city government would be more responsive to area residents than county government.

They also said the area, although made up predominately of poor Mexican-American barrios, had enough industry and other economic bases to support a city government.

Homeowners groups in the area, who made up most of the opposition, disputed these claims. They feared the burden of supporting a city government would fall on their shoulders in the form of property taxes.

Dad of 8 not rich, but he has four in college

CHICAGO (UPI) — Everyone else groans about inflation, but John Baiyor chuckles when he says he has four children attending a Big Ten university, another child in prep school and three more in Catholic elementary school.

"It's not that hard," said Baiyor, 50, responding to the inevitable question: "It must cost you a fortune."

Baiyor isn't a millionaire. He owns a small automobile repair shop. He said children aren't cheaper by the dozen—or in his case, two-thirds of a dozen. The secret, he says, is eight healthy, bright hard working sons and daughters.

"There's no way with the income I make I could send them through college. One maybe. But four and at the same time, forget it," Baiyor said.

Joseph Jr., 21, Mary Ann, 20, Jean, 19, and Barbara, 18, attend Northwestern University. They all live on campus. Ordinarily, Baiyor estimated it would cost $25,000 a year to pay tuition, room and board for the four at the private school in suburban Evanston.

"They're paying their way through. They all have scholarships, government loans they'll pay back, jobs," he said.

Robert, 16, does odd jobs to help with tuition costs at a suburban Catholic prep school. The three youngest Baiyor children attend a Catholic elementary school in suburban Elmhurst where the family lives. The school charges a flat yearly rate of $350 per family, regardless of the number of children.

Baiyor is proud his four eldest are attendi[illegible], but he says he did not force them to get a college degree.

"I never went through college. You're not left out in the cold. I'm making a good living and taking care of 10. What more could you expect?" he said.

Baiyor admitted there were times "I wish I were dead." He said he works "no less" than 12 hours a day, seven days a week.

Dizziness Is A Symptom Not To Be Treated "Light-Headedly"

By DR. W. P. HELZER, D.C.

A woman recently wrote. "What is dizziness? Every time I tell my husband I'm dizzy he wants me to describe it. I can't, can you?" Dizziness has many meanings and the manifestations vary with the cause. I've heard the term used to describe feeling, light headedness, faintness, giddiness, hazy vision or confusion. Others are more articulate in their description. They say it's like 'walking on a pit full of straw', 'going down an elevator', 'uneasy' or 'something in front of my eyes.'

Dr. Wes Helzer D.C.

My best try at describing true vertigo is to say the sensation resembles the dizziness we develop as children when rolling downhill or turning around and around while in a standing position. The world turns about when the eyes are open, but when closed we would whirl about in space like an astronaut.

Dizziness is not an uncommon symtom, but the manner in which an individual experiences it is important to the diagnosis. For instance, the childish sensation described above is a type of vertigo that stems from a disturbance of the centers of equilibrium in the ears or brain.

A person with high blood pressure is more likely to complain of lightheadedness than of true vertigo.

You can help the Doctor by telling him when the dizziness occurs. An example is the "oldster who almost falls when he jumps out of bed or stands up too quickly." He could well have a circulatory problem.

Of course, the most meaningful thing about dizziness is that it is a symptom, and one that should not be ignored. Only recently I heard of a patient who complained of dizziness when he turned his head to the side or upwards. On examination it was found that he was suffering from an arthritic spine. Needless to say, had it not been for this dizziness he would not have sought treatment for a very serious and often eventually crippling problem.

(Note: Dr. Helzer maintains chiropractic offices at 108 East H Street, Ontario, telephone: 983-1711).

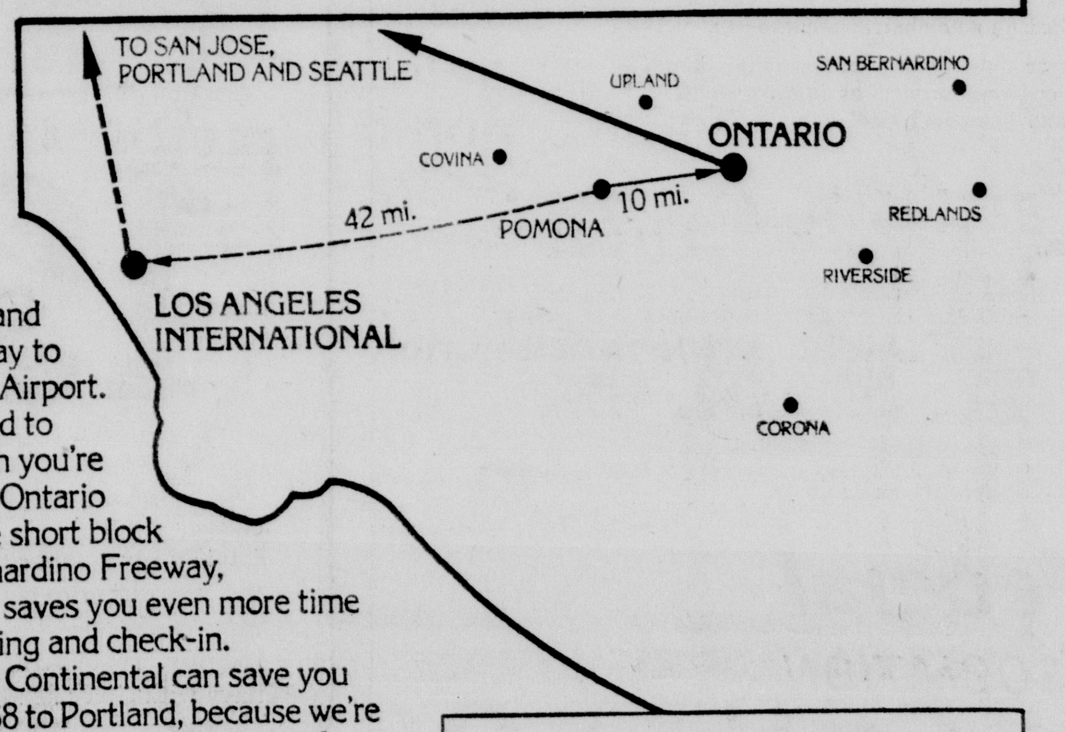
We can save you two hours in the long run to Portland.



Those hours you'd waste back and forth on the freeway to L.A. International Airport. But there's no need to go that route when you're right next door to Ontario International. One short block from the San Bernardino Freeway, this handy airport saves you even more time on baggage handling and check-in.

What's more, Continental can save you $10 to Seattle or $8 to Portland, because we're the only airline with Economy Class out of Ontario. We also have the only advance seat selections. The only stereo and the only overhead storage. The only Irish Coffee breakfast service in First Class. And more flights than any other airline: a convenient total of three a day.

We know where you're going—and in the long run, it's just a short hop when you fly Continental from Ontario.

Acclimate dog first if moving quarters

By DR. FRANK MILLER

If any change in quarters is contemplated for your pet between now and Spring, and if it's likely to be a cool move, give your pet time to prepare physiologically, by making the move now. For example, if your dog's muddy feet this fall cause him to be relegated to a doghouse, then be sure the doghouse is adequate and give him time now to get used to it. The more acclimating time the dog is given, the better he'll be able to handle the increasingly severe weather as it comes.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Valentino is a handsome long-haired cat who spends half his time trying to keep himself in shape. I'd like to help him but that's the only time when he won't appreciate my attention. He runs away if I try to cmb or brush him, and if I try to hold him and do it, then he'll bite. Any way to get him to stand for it? —N.V.

Dear N.V.: Valentino should value your assistance. Simply give him time. Start by leaving brush or comb around where he can get used to it. Then have it right next to him while you're petting him, finally in your hand, but don't even use it. Then when you do use it, be very slow and gentle, start with only a stroke or two. Patience is the key to getting acceptance of new procedures, particularly where a cat is concerned.

DEAR DR. MILLER: On the theory I'd rather have my son get in trouble at home than somewhere else, or something like that, I let him bring his friends home to practice their hard-rock music in the basement. It's been a difficult summer. First Tom, my cat, left. He came back after a few days, but he leaves as soon as the boys show up to practice. Next Tweety, my canary, started to get sick. I was sure it was the noise that my son calls music, so I shipped him off to my sister's. Sure enough, he started getting better right away, and now he's doing fine, but I daren't bring him home. Now even Goldy, my son's goldfish, is looking sick — I think for the same reason. Goldy was well enough for the two years before this, and nothing's been changed. Is this "music" the problem. —K.L.

Dear K.L.: I can't tell just how many of those hard-rock decibels are getting to Goldy all the way from the basement, but it's already a proven fact that a lot of fish don't like hard-rock music. In fact, these very sounds have been piped under water to keep fish away from certain areas, and it does.

$25 million?

West German investor eyes Fedmart Corp.

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — A West German investor is negotiating the purchase of the 44-store Fedmart Corp., estimated to exceed $25 million, according to the corporation president.

Sol Price said recently that the Southern California chain has agreed in principle to sell 1,067,203 shares of Fedmart common stock to Hugo Mann.

Mann, of Karlsruhe, West Germany, is the owner of the Mann Group of enterprises in West Germany, which operates department stores in 10 German cities.

Price said a binding contract probably would be executed by the end of November and predicted completion of the transaction in February, 1975, following stockholder approval.

Fedmart opened its first store in San Diego in 1954. It reported estimated earnings of $3,775,000 for the year ending Sept. 1. Sales during the year amounted to $319 million, the firm said.

Sale of surplus blood by county hospital probed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The sale of surplus blood from county-operated hospitals was halted Wednesday after Supervisor Baxter Ward called for an investigation into possible illegal sale of the blood and misuse of the resulting income.

Ward's request for a probe called for legal and financial studies and discipline of any county employes involved in illegal activities.

Restituiton to the general fund was also ordered from persons or organizations benefiting financially from the sale of blood.

Ward alleges that more than $13,000 received from some $40,000 for the sale of blood has been misspent and that during the last two years, blood has been sold without competitive bidding.

Taking better line of play

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "Against any opening lead but a trump, South has no trouble making four spades provided he goes right after hearts. He will lose two hearts and one diamond. The other losing diamond goes on the ace of clubs and he will be able to ruff his last heart."

Jim: "Against the trump lead there are two good lines of play. The first is to cash the king of clubs; lead a heart to dummy's ace; discard a diamond on the ace of clubs and lead a second heart. The defense plays a second trump. Now when the third heart is led. West wins and does not have a trump left."

Oswald: "All plays work if hearts break 3-3. The sure-fire line against the actual East-West holding works, but it would fail if four hearts and three trumps were in the same hand."

Jim: "That's why I took another line when I played the hand. I simply ran off four trumps, discarding a diamond from dummy. West had to discard on the third trump lead and jettisoned a heart, so I cashed my king of clubs and ducked a heart. Discarded a diamond when the club came back; played ace and one heart and claimed. It had appeared to me that any opponent with four hearts would chuck one. Old West had obliged."

Diplomat's eldest son ends life

LONDON (UPI) — Julian Ormsby-Gore, eldest of the jet set children of Lord Harlech, former British ambassador to Washington, died from self-inflicted bullet wounds in the head, police said Wednesday.

Ormsby-Gore's pajama-clad body was found on a bed in his discotheque-style London apartment by his 22-year-old sister Alice. A small-caliber pistol lay at his side.

A neighbor said that for the past two weeks the dark-haired 34-year-old Julian had been moody and preferred to stay alone in the apartment most of the time. He was often heard singing and drumming to heavy rock music late at night.

He was the eldest of Lord Harlech's five children by his first wife, Sylvia, and had worked for a time as a male model and as a waiter. He also helped run the family es-

Voters defeated QQ, but . . .

Superintendent seeks another tax vote

Schools Supt. Robert E. Wentz Tuesday will recommend to the Pomona school board that the district return to the voters next spring with another tax override proposal.

The district needs additional funds, Wentz said, to prevent drastic reductions in personnel and cuts in programs in 1975-76. The board will meet at 7:30 p.m. at 800 S. Garey Ave.

Proposition QQ, a district proposal on the Nov. 5 election ballot to increase its general tax rate by $1.44 on each $100 of assessed valuation, was defeated.

The district has gone to the voters 11 times since 1956 asking for additional money. Only three proposals have won approval—in 1956, 1963 and 1968. In 1968 voters okayed a 75 cent per $100 of assessed valuation tax override renewal.

Wentz said he had been informed by the county schools office that the district could present another proposal to the voters either in March or May.

If the school board should decide on the March date it could share costs of the election with City of Pomona. The municipal primary election is set for March 4, 1975.

If the school board decides to wait until May to go to the voters, the district will have to pay the entire cost of the election.

Wentz will advise the school board to wait until its Nov. 26 meeting to make a decision. At that time, Mrs. Mary Montes will be seated and the board will be back to full strength.

Mrs. Montes won election to the school board Nov. 6 and will fill the unexpired term of Roy O. Day who resigned last June.

Wentz said he would recommend that the district ask again for the $1.44 per $100 of assessed valuation amount, but limit it to a set number of years, between three and five.

The Legislature has five years to implement new methods of financing public education in California under the Serrano-Priest Decision. "We feel there will be some changes in the financing of schools at the state level within the next three years," said Wentz. "This was a major platform issue during the recent elections and candidates made commitments to resolve the issue of school finance as quickly as possible."

If the school board decides to proceed with another override election, Wentz said, it also should authorize another citizens' committee to promote the issue.

The Citizens' Committee for Quality Schools, headed by Nelson Scherer and Michael Wharton of Pomona, worked in support of defeated Proposition QQ.

Fire losses hurtle past 1973 toll

Fire damage to Claremont buildings and their contents during July, August, and September already has surpassed that of entire fiscal 1973-74.

Fire Chief Robert A. Lee, in his quarterly report to the City Council, explained that during the first three months of the present fiscal year fires have caused an estimated loss of $27,145, compared with only $15,165 for the year ending June 30.

Auto fire loss is not included in the report.

Lee called the 1973-74 losses "exceptionally low." He noted that city fire losses in 1972-73 were $170,691 because of a condominium fire.

He reported that local units responded to 265 emergency calls during July, August and September, an increase of 28 from the same quarter last year.

Cooperative responses to Pomona totaled 110.

"It would seem that we are spending an inordinate amount of time outside the city," Lee said, "but analysis of the outside responses indicates that the vast majority are nuisance-type runs to false alarms and small grass fires in the North Pomona area.

Lee explained that in view of the fact that a four-man engine company responds from Pomona to Claremont fires, which would cost Claremont $200,000 a year to duplicate, the lopsided run experience of 110 to 37 "is a small price to pay."

Lee said he could recall no critical incidents during the four-year history of the mutual-aid program where a Claremont company was tied up in Pomona when it was needed in Claremont.

Lee also reported that the fire department has completed a four-month citywide survey of residential property to eliminate fire hazards and various other violations of city codes.

Of the 4,400 properties surveyed, 381 were found to have one or more conditions requiring corrections.

Lee reported that many violations were of a minor or temporary nature and had been eliminated.

Forty instances of weeds and so forth were referred to county weed abatement.

Lee explained that during a visit to each house, firemen handed out emergency procedure handbooks and offered to survey the interior, but received a positive response from only 15 per cent of the occupants.

Of the 381 properties having code violations, many had multiple problems which added up to 546 separate infractions.

Firemen found 277 lots having weeds or uncontrolled growth, 116 having debris such as autos and appliances, junk and refuse, and 43 with dead trees and potholes.

Lee said that in many cases the form used by firemen did not furnish sufficient information concerning a problem to enable the city planning staff to answer questions posed by the property owner.

He said that forms would be changed for another survey next year.

City to study sharing funds

The allocation of general revenue sharing funds to eight social service agencies in Pomona will be considered by the Pomona City Council Tuesday.

The council will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. due to today's Veteran's Day observance.

The eight agencies under consideration for allocations are the Mexican-American Opportunities Foundation, Open Choices, Pomona Boys' Club, Safety Council, Pomona Valley Council on Aging, YMCA Outreach, YWCA and the Upward Bound project.

The groups had been recommended for funding totaling over $30,000 by the city's Community Life Commission, but the allocations were not acted upon at the last council meeting when approval was given to the allocations for 18 other city agencies and groups.

At that time several council members expressed a desire to further study the proposals for the seven groups before taking action.

Other agenda items for the meeting include a proposed extension of the redevelopment consultant contract with Urban Projects Inc. until Jan. 1. The proposed extension includes a $17,000 payment to the company

The council is also expected to discuss the state-mandated emergency phone system. The 9-1-1 system, which will be the number that will be called for all emergency services throughout the state under the system, has not been funded by the state and cities are currently studying the financial impact of the system.

The council is also expected to order the installation of stop signs on Sixth and Seventh streets at Gibbs Street, and make final acceptance of the reconstruction of the Ganesha Park Tennis Courts.

World demand is just barely ahead of sugar supply

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The world's sugar supply has increased only 1 per cent this year and there will be just enough to meet world demand, according to Agriculture Department experts.

The experts predict the worldwide sugar crop in 1974-75 will end up around 81.1 million metric tons --about 2 million tons below earlier projections. But estimates place demand at 81 million tons.

According to the new forecasts, beet sugar production was expected to be down about 1.4 million tons from 1973-74 levels. Cane sugar output was expected to rise by about 2 million tons, leaving a net increase of 600,000 tons —1 per cent over last year's record crop.

The Agriculture Department's Foreign Agricultural Service said world sugar consumption should also set a new record this year, but high prices would slow the rate of increase.

With the price of sugar already at record levels, the government has announced plans to investigate pricing policies and the profit margins of major domestic suppliers.

Although consumption estimates are about 2 per cent higher than in 1973-74, experts said there is already some evidence of per capita reductions in sugar consumption in the United States, some Western European nations and Japan.

Other districts to study Fremont reading project

The demonstration reading project at Fremont Junior High School in Pomona will be studied by representatives of 15 Southern California school districts next Thursday.

Fremont's project, rated third in the state last year, will be held up by state Demonstration Reading Program director Earl Watson as the good example before the visiting educators.

Fremont Principal Rafael H. Estupinian and Fremont project supervisor Cheryl F. Givens will be hosts at the session, which will begin at 11 a.m. and end at 2 p.m.

Mrs. Givens said the visitors, all of whom are interested in applying for state funds to establish demonstration reading projects at their respective schools, will be encouraged to start from a model that works and attempt to improve upon it.

There now are 17 demonstration reading projects in operation in the state. Indications are, said Mrs. Givens, that there will be at least 10 new ones funded, depending upon what applications are accepted.

Fremont's reading project, which provides individual reading instruction to all seventh graders this year, is staffed with three teachers, five aides, the supervisor and a parttime nurse who checks eyes, ears and makes home visits in an attempt to eliminate health problems which may adversely affect reading ability of students.

Fremont's reading project was funded in February of 1973.

Oil-producing country's ruler is quiz subject

Today's newsname is the ruler of a major oil-producing, non-Arab nation. He's devised a plan for lowering oil prices by linking them to the prices of other commodities, and he plans to push for its approval at a December meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Can you identify him?

Turn to the quiz, appearing today on page 9. You'll find him there, along with other people and events in the news.

Challenging questions will test your news knowledge. The quiz is published by the Progress-Bulletin as part of its current events program for schools in this area.

Answer's to today's quiz questions may be found in the Pomona First Federal Savings & Loan Association advertisement on page 10.

Rocky's problem-- a bit too much?

Vice Presidential designate Nelson Rockefeller must wonder if any office is worth the hassle.

It is a thought, certainly, which is occurring to more and more people who at one time might have sought public office.

Rockefeller's problem, at least the main one, isn't that he received illegal contributions or did anything illegal. He gave away money to friends and associates. It is a heck of a reverse on the old arguments about why people shouldn't hold office.

At the root of the gift furor, of course, is Rockefeller's enormous wealth. Most people don't think in his terms financially — unless they are passing out the taxpayer's dollars.

The sanctimonious crew which is tch; tching about Rockefeller handing out money professes to see great peril in the correlation of wealth and power, of gift and obligation. Most of those in Congress who are bleating about how bad it is for Rockefeller to give away a million or so are giving away billions of taxpayer dollars constantly. If all that might buy them a few political brownie points so much the better, they feel.

To date no one has drawn the parallel of public give-aways with Rockefeller's personal generosity. If it happened, the pious answer would be how much in the public and national interest these actions are — which is so much bleep.

Then Rocky, a somewhat liberal Republican, has been catching it from his conservative friends, too, who would just as soon not see him that heartbeat away from the number one spot. Whether he is liberal, or conservative, or moderate, he was chosen in accordance with the constitution by the President. There isn't any provision that the man's philosophy must fit anyone else's. This is an attack which could rightfully be waged at the next Republican National Convention when a presidential and a vice presidential candidate will be nominated.

But back to Rockefeller, and a number of others in public life who must wonder how much dirt, innuendo and villification a person must be prepared to take to be in public life. In their private thoughts they must be coming to the conclusion that it is a bit too much.

Driving men

Females may outnumber males in the general population, but it's still a man's world on the highway.

According to the Federal Highway Administration, male drivers outnumbered female drivers in all age groups in 38 states out of the 43 that were able to supply the agency with actual or estimated counts of licensed drivers at the end of 1973.

The ratio in the reporting states was 55.3 per cent male and 44.7 per cent female. This was a change from the 60.2 per cent male and 39.8 per cent female ratio found in 19 states in 1963, but not as much of a change as the experts had expected.

There is still a surprising degree of consistency among the states in the percentage of male drivers. More than 94 per cent of the states vary within only 3 points of the national average. However, there was an 8.7 per cent difference between Ohio, which had the highest proportion of male drivers at 60.3 per cent, and Connecticut, which at 51.6 per cent was the lowest state.

A complete understanding of the reasons for this variance, says the agency, "would require an in-depth study of many factors, including the elements of motivation, vehicle availability and income levels."

Better warn Bert

Well, it probably had to happen. There is no Homecoming Queen at the University of Akron this year.

"It has become the growing trend in America to speak in nongendered terms," explains Jill Rueble, of the school's Student Center Program Board. "For this reason, the Homecoming Committee has decided that the title of Homecoming Person will best suit the purpose."

All they need now is to have Bert Parks singing, "Here it comes, Homecoming Person. Here it comes, la da de da . . ."

A beautiful America starts at home

This is my second attempt in writing this letter. The first letter I wrote was severely criticized because I had criticized a particular city rather than a few others with the same problem.

I have always been brought up in good surroundings where my neighborhood was kept up and clean. I have also been taught that litter is bad and that a trashy looking place should be cleaned up. "Keep America Beautiful" is a familiar saying in this country.

But to ride through a city and see houses that look abandoned, trashy and just plain "slobbish" discourage me about this country. I don't believe that it takes so much money, time and work to make a house look livable or just well kept.

If a person can't take pride in their country and continue to litter, why can't they take pride in their homes and just clean them up for their own sake.

I don't know the reason why people can leave a place looking so ugly. I feel very sorry for the people who do their best to make their houses and yards look nice, not immaculate maybe, but neat. They must feel discouraged or sad to see the houses next door, or across the street that look dirty, and ask themselves why they even try to keep their home up when the rest of the neighborhood looks abandoned and neglected.

I know that if I owned a home, I'd take time out to make it look like a home. I am proud to live in this city and neighborhood, because I can see that people do care what their homes like like.

Why can't keeping America beautiful start at a person's own home? It's only a small portion of America and it's ours.—Jennifer Ball, Claremont.

Military oil takeover grows likelier

WASHINGTON — A grim, new mood is developing in Washington that military intervention may be necessary to bring down the price of oil and save the West from economic ruin.

Until the last few weeks, military action was considered out of the question. But the mood definitely is changing, as the consequences of the oil gouge have become more devastating.

Oil is the lifeblood of the industrial West. A growing number of policymakers now agree that the United States cannot stand by while a few recklessly greedy potentates interfere with the normal flow of our lifeblood.

Already, the oil price squeeze has driven Italy to the brink of bankruptcy. Other Western stalwarts, such as England and Japan, have been rocked by high oil prices. Unless the prices are quickly reduced, economic chaos will spread throughout the West.

The repercussions, top policymakers have told us, would affect the "vital interests" of the United States. The use of the term "vital interests" is ominous. For it is understood that the United States will go to war, if necessary, to protect its "vital interests."

One important policymaker, in confidential talks with us, compared the oil gouge to Pearl Harbor, In fact, he assessed the economic damage as far greater than what resulted from the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

The Arab oil rulers, he insisted, are engaged in overt economic warfare. They have used oil as a weapon to demand political concessions. They have even imposed wartime secrecy upon their oil strategy meetings, he said.

In the backrooms, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has opposed even hinting at military action aginst the Arabs. He has confidence that the Arab moderates, particularly Egypt's President Anwar Sadat and Saudi Arabia's King Faisal, can restore oil prices to a let-live level. U.S. military intervention, he has warned, could set the entire Middle East on fire.

President Ford, while going along with Kissinger, has taken a harder line in the strategy sessions. Our sources say the President is willing to use U.S. military power as a last resort to prevent the oil cartel from causing disastrous economic and political dislocations in the West.

The policy experts don't believe the Soviet Union would interfere with a U.S. military operation in the Middle East. Even Kissinger agrees, according to our sources, that the superpowers recognize one another's "vital interests."

Just as the United States didn't try to stop the Soviet Union from invading Czechoslovakia, Kissinger believes the Soviets wouldn't likely risk a nuclear war with the United States over Middle East oil.

The secret speculation is that Libya would be the most likely target of U.S intervention. Libya's radical strongman, Muammar el-Qaddafi, isn't popular with his Arab neighbors or the Russians. They would be less perturbed over an attack upon Libya, therefore, than any other Arab oil state.

It was also the fiery Qaddafi who triggered the oil price rise. In late 1971, he moved in on Occidental Petroleum, a U.S. company, which depended upon Libya for its crude. His squeeze tactics were so successful that by early 1974 he had boosted the price of Libyan oil from $1.50 to $16 a barrel.

His tactics encouraged other oil potentates to band with him. If he were singled out for U.S. retaliation, they might once again get the message.

CIA sources have suggested that the simplest way to knock the props out from under Qaddafi would be to engineer a coup and replace him with a leader more friendly to the West.

One secret report tells of a discussion between a CIA agent and an Occidental official about putting up $50 million for Qaddafi's asassination. High officials have assured us, however, that the $50 million talk was nothing but barroom banter and has never been given serious consideration.

Pentagon sources have pointed out that Libya's oil fields are reasonably isolated and, therefore, could be seized, sealed off and protected with relative ease. This should take no more than two Marine divisions, one source estimated.

There is also talk in the backrooms about giving Israel the green light to take over Kuwait's oil fields. The secret assessment is that no combination of Arab armies could stop an Israeli march upon Kuwait.

Perhaps significantly, the United States has suddenly started to rush arms shipments to Israel. In some cases, the U.S. military's own stocks have been depleted to make the weapons available to Israel.

Secret military studies show, however, that the oil fields would be highly vulnerable to Arab sabotage and the oil could be bottled inside the Persian Gulf by sinking a couple of tankers in the narrow straits at the mouth. The tankers couldn't get out of the Gulf without coming within range of hidden Arab artillery.

The stakes, however, are high. Kuwait has the world's third largest oil reserves, with a known supply of 64 billion barrels. Only Saudi Arabia and the Soviet Union have more oil. And Libya, with 26 billion barrels under its sands, ranks seventh.

Music one of our best investments

Americans are doing their thing — whatever it is — to the sound of music! Young Americans who consider their parents' generation too preoccupied with getting and spending are taking time along the way to smell the flowers — and to make music.

One American in five now plays a musical instrument; that's 37 million Americans. No other avocation is enjoyed by so many. The most popular instrument is still the piano.

In 44 per cent of all American families, there is an amateur musician — an increase of more than 20 per cent in five years. More than half of those musicians are pianists.

But the guitar is not far behind. After seven centuries of so-so acceptance, the guitar is having an immense impact among school-agers.

In schools, the guitar has proved highly effective in teaching slow learners to read, in re-interesting potential dropouts, in communicating with lethargic students.

So important are these fringe benefits that 17 per cent of all high schools make guitars available to students. In the past year, the sales of guitars soared 16 per cent in numbers, 24 per cent in dollars.

There are now seven million Americans playing guitar, second in number only to pianists. The American Music Conference conducted a national survey which reveals that the unrealized potential is greater than what that art has already experienced.

There's a musician in 44 per cent of all American homes; 83 per cent wish there were. Unanswered by this study are the reasons why: Most professional doctors are amateur musicians. At least 53 per cent of all amateur musicians are over 21. The guitar player's second instrument is most likely to be the harmonica.

Increasing numbers of young women are joining college marching bands. Women drummers have doubled in five years; women playing trumpet tripled.

Dr. Robert Pace, head of piano instruction at Columbia University Teachers College, is pioneering a system of piano instruction which promises to vastly expand the number of amateur piano players. His group-teaching technique sometimes has 10 youngsters plunking away on two pianos at the same time.

The Pace method, now in use in hundreds of schools, is said to teach within three years skills not normally taught until college level. The American Music Conference study indicates that families in which there is an amateur musician are more likely to share music-related activities: concerts, TV programs, records.

The family which plays together stays together. So the $1.5 billion we are spending this year on musical instruments may well yield more interest than any of our other investments.

Just in jest

A candidate for political office recently pointed out:

One vote paved the way for American Independence.

One vote brought California into annexation.

One vote elected three Presidents—Jefferson, Adams and Hayes.

One vote resulted in the passage of prohibition.

From all of which I can come to only one logical conclusion: An aspiring politician should take no chances. He should never be modest. He should always vote for himself.

Dean goes under in Watergate landslide

WASHINGTON — Looking for a sample congressional district to encapsulate what happened to the Republican party last Tuesday, I really didn't have to go beyond my own backyard: Joel Broyhill, dean of Virginia's U.S. House delegation, was defeated by a liberal Democrat in what a national capital oberver termed "one of the most astounding upsets in the country."

Broyhill, who has represented northern Virginia's 10th District for 22 years, was originally carried into office by the first Eisenhower landslide over Adlai Stevenson. At that time the election of a young, aggressive Republican conservative in traditional Democratic country was viewed as an important political breakthrough.

Indeed, Broyhill was projected as a prototype of a new breed of young suburban businessmen who would form the cadre of a revitalized Republican party. The old Democratic coalition which had been put together by Franklin D. Roosevelt appeared to be coming apart at the seams.

The speculation that autumn of 1952, as Ike the war hero campaigned around the country, concerned the formation of a new Eisenhower coalition. Just as 1932 had been a watershed political year in which the national power balance had swung to the Democrats, so the election of '52 seemed to herald a coming Republican era.

Well, as we know, it never quite came off that way. The expert political trend-spotters of the 1950s were no better than those of today. What happened to throw their speculations off was that, while Ike stayed in office for eight years with his own personal popularity intact, he never succeeded in translating that popularity into votes for Republicans in Congress and at the state and local levels of government.

The general, it was explained, just didn't care for the nuts-and-bolts aspect of politics. He preferred to leave that to his Vice President, Dick Nixon.

But Eisenhower coalition or no, Joel Broyhill went about the job of creating his own winning political combination. It was a coalition made up of Republicans and of conservative Democrats disaffected with the liberal trend in their own national party. The 10th District Congressman held his following together with the glue of systematic and untiring response to all inquiries and requests that came in from constituents.

The last mentioned wasn't easy, either. Virginia's 10th District, you see, is suburban Washington. Thus, while most members of Congress deal every day with constituent letters and wires, Broyhill's Capitol Hill office was only a local phone call or bus ride away for irate voters bedeviled by the bureaucratic idiosyncrasies of the VA, Social Security administration or some other federal agency.

Nor was that Broyhill's only problem in holding onto his House seat for more than two decades. Only a paper clip's throw across the Potomac, his district included a sizeable constituency of civil servants brought into the Washington area and nurtured over the years by Democratic administrations dating back to FDR's day.

To these and other vocal, as well as influential, elements in the life of the nation's capital, Broyhill's unabashed conservative political style was a source of constant irritation if not outrage. As a result, no two years passed without a major liberal effort to unseat him.

Broyhill survived them all however — even the Goldwater debacle of ten years ago, when Republicans were being swept out of office by the dozens. But this year would be different.

Despite the veteran Republican campaigner's efforts to stress his own record and disassociate himself from the travails of a Republican White House, Joel Broyhill went under in what will be known as the Watergate landslide.

On election night, after conceding, Broyhill indicated his intention to come back two years from now. And well he might. But it was the end of an era nonetheless: the new breed Republican hope of 1952 had been defeated by Joseph Fisher, an opponent who cited as his chief qualification for Congress the fact that he had served as an economic adviser to every Democratic President since, you guessed it — Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Importing car costing more than it's worth

I am seeking help for my father-in-law.

He moved to this country about a month ago and had all his belongings shipped.

Last week he received a letter informing him all his stuff, including his car, had arrived and for him to pick it up.

With his son, a friend and a truck, he went to Los Angeles. He was there from 8 to 11:30 a.m.

He was told he could have his personal things, which were wet because they had already been opened and it had rained.

He couldn't have his car. He was required to post a bond of $2,500 to insure he would get the car up to United States and California specifications.

All in all, he understood this would cost about $2,000. With the original cost of the car, a Fiat priced at approximately $2,000, plus shipping charges, plus the $2,000 to bring the car up to standards, the car would cost him around $5,000.

When you are 71 and on a pension, this is a lot of money. — Mrs. N. G., Pomona.

Your father-in-law told us that he was not informed in advance, when he shipped his car, that it would cost around $2,000 to have it brought up to standards here and that he would have to post a bond of $2,500.

We contacted both North American Maritime Agencies, which was involved in the ocean transportation of his car, and the U. S. Customs Service.

Donald S. Ballard,vice president of North American, said he believed that the Fiat dealer in Italy or someone assisting with export arrangements could have informed your father-in-law of requirements for importing a vehicle into California.

James P. O'Brien of the Customs Service confirmed that the car must conform to Department of Transportation and Environmental Protection Agency standards.

Your case has been referred to those agencies. Either they or a manufacturer's representative will be able to explain exactly what must be done to the car to bring it into conformity.

Work must be completed within 90 days of the date of entry.

If it is not accomplished within this time, the car can be exported, abandoned to the government or destroyed under Customs service supervision.

Since your father was not given this information before he shipped the car, he says, he is considering legal action.

I read in your column one time about a person who conducted a step-parent adoption himself.

Although I followed the same procedure he did, the lady I spoke with was rude and uncooperative.

My husband wants to adopt my son and we want to do our own petition. How is this possible with this sort of person being so rude with others? —E.S., Pomona

We don't have any idea where you encountered the rude lady.

Rudeness can't be condoned. On the other hand, no one but an attorney you might hire yourself would be required to help you with step-parent adoption.

What we published in May 1973 were letters from readers who were able to accomplish the procedure themselves.

One consulted a text in a legal library.

Another purchased a $2 booklet from the Los Angeles Daily Journal on step-parent adoption. He also had the help of a typist friend and "the kind encouragement of several county employes."

That booklet is still available by writing to the the Journal at 210 S. Spring St., Los Angeles, 90012.

We added a paragraph of warning that some cases are more complicated than others and may necessitate paying for the help of an attorney.

When dog puts the bite on a child, the consequences can be traumatic

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our nephew, seven years old, was bitten by a dog he tried to pet. The child spent the first six years of his life on a farm and loves animals. The bite was not serious, but the incident caused such emotional trauma that now the child goes into a panic whenever he sees a dog, even a tiny poodle on the lap of an older woman.

Please advise parents on how to teach their children to protect themselves against strange dogs. Of course, the real solution would be an ironclad leash law in every city — but it's like wishing for the moon. Thanks, Ann. — Concerned Citizen

Dear C. C.: I checked with the Chicago Health Dept. and learned that most dog bite victims are boys between five and nine years of age. And, I was told the psychological damage is usually worse than the bite. Most dogs bite because they feel threatened or have been provoked. So — parents should teach their children, (1) stay away from strange dogs, (2) don't talk to them or try to pet them, and (3) never tease a dog that is fenced in or tied up. Some dogs, if irritated, can jump a fence or break loose from a rope. It is unwise to wave a stick (or any object that might be perceived as a weapon) in a dog's face.

Children should be told: "If a strange dog growls at you or appears to be ready to attack, never run or scream. Stand still, with your arms at the side and speak softly to the animal. If the dog attacks, cover your face with arms crossed. If the dog starts to leap, get down on the ground, belly down, and cover your head with your arms.

Every dog bite, no matter how trivial, should be reported to the police or the health department. And one last thing — if there is no leash law in your city, lobby for one.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 17 and have a sister who is 15. Recently I read my sister's diary. I realize it was wrong, but I did it anyway.

Now I know that she and her boyfriend are involved in some very heavy petting. What's even worse, her boyfriend does not believe in God. Do you think I should tell my mother or keep quiet? I know it would break Mom's heart if she knew what was going on. Please advise me. — Very Much Undecided

Dear Much: M.Y.O.B. You had no business snooping. Don't compound the wrongdoing by finking on your sister. It will not change her behavior nor will it help her boyfriend believe in God, but it will most assuredly destroy your sister's belief in YOU.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I remember watching my mother and grandmother go through menopause — the hot flashes and unbearable discomfort. I always thought when it hit me I'd know, but now I'm not sure.

I am 42 and have these sudden rushes of heat waves that come on unexpectedly. I perspire as if I were in a steam bath. Sometimes they last for 20 minutes.

I can't sleep a whole night through. In the morning I'm soaking wet. I mentioned this to a friend and she said I was too young for menopause. It didn't hit her till she was 52. When I phoned our family doctor he said, "Learn to live with it." Any advice? — Miserable

Dear M.: Make an appointment with another doctor — this time a gynecologist. Menopause hits women at different times. There's no set age. And you don't have to "learn to live with it" either. Medication can give you relief. And when you get relief, phone your old family doctor and tell him about it. He needs to go back to medical school for a refresher course.

Even if drinking is the "in" thing in your crowd, it needn't crowd you out. Learn the facts from Ann Landers's booklet, "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only." Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 140, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

RATTLES & STRAWS

Lost in a Sargasso Sea of red tape

By JOSEPH H. FIRMAN

Some years ago, as any adventurous boy of 50 might do, I took hammer and saw and built myself a tiny rowboat of the type known to nautical chaps as a dinghy.

An inoffensive, ludicrous craft, it floated almost level in the water and would carry two people across a calm lake if one of them bailed. I was terribly proud of the oafish little tub.

In my vainglory I made two serious mistakes: I named it Boat, and I listed it with the district tax assessor as a lawful, if slightly whimsical item of my lares and penates.

In less time than it takes to look up your Zip Code, I received through the mail an impressive document from the STATE OF CALIFORNIA, Marine Transport Department, Bureau of Inland and Coastal Waterways, Small Boats Division. Gracious.

The STATE OF CALIFORNIA didn't seem concerned about my tax bill, but the fact that I had a boat excited officialdom as much as if I'd set up a cyclotron in my cellar.

I was to fill out the enclosed three-page form (in triplicate) send for an application of registry, forward affidavit of inspection by the officers of the Marine Transport Division and-or the U. S. Coast Guard, and apply for license, insurance, fire extinguisher permits, etc.

"See what you've done to me, Boat?" I said reproachfully, but the little craft merely bobbed happily at dockside, listing raffishly under the weight of a couple of cushions.

So I set to work filling out the form giving official status to my cockeyed cockleshell. It would never make Jane's "Fleets of the World" or whatever it is. I skipped more blanks than I filled in.

Tonnage? Height of superstructure? Width of beam? Draft? Where keel laid? Shipyard? Marine architect? Where berthed?

I did the best I could, honest. I wasn't deliberately trying to be funny, but the clerks in the state capital apparently thought I was, and I got the form back with testy instructions to straighten up and file right.

When I saw they had crossed out Boat under Name of Vessel, I became indignant. I crossed out THEIR crossout and re-entered Boat. Who steals my dinghy steals trash, who steals my good name. . . .

In the ensuing months our correspondence became more vituperous on their part, more innocently bland on mine. They kept crossing out Boat.

During the sixth or seventh exchange, I had occasion to sell my little nautical darling at a neat profit ($4.95), and I unloaded her. Money means more to me than sentiment. Sayonara!

But did this sale halt the torrent of documents, forms, application blanks, and threats from the Marine Department? Need you ask? By now they were convinced I was operating a Russian submarine out of Newport.

Boat has been gone from my life for over a year now, but the memory, as it were, lingers on. Almost every day I find in my mailbox a questionnaire asking my tonnage.

Boat, bless her lopsided little heart, was sold by her second owner and in the course of time chopped up for kindling, which makes me a little sad. She should have had a decent burial at sea.

And I can wish no more for the Department of Marine Transport.

Hemorrhoids need proper treatment

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you give me some information about ingrown piles? Can ingrown piles be operated on or can they be cured in other ways?

DEAR READER — Judging from the numerous ads about hemorrhoid preparations you would think all you needed to do was use one of them. It isn't that simple.

There are two types of hemorrhoids, the external type and the internal type. Those outside the muscular sphincter can be seen and touched.

Hemorrhoids are nothing more than varicose veins of the rectum. When one of the dilated veins gets a clot in it and is obstructed then you have a "thrombosed hemorrhoid."

If the obstructed vein is outside the sphincter it feels like a small ball and is uncomfortable. The term piles comes from the Latin word "pila" meaning ball. You have the discomfort because this area is abundantly supplied with sensitive nerve fibers.

Hemorrhoids inside the sphincter often cause no discomfort. There are no sensitive pain fibers there. They do bleed and painless bleeding of bright red blood may be caused by internal hemorrhoids. The word hemorrhoid comes from a Greek word meaning the flow of blood.

Sometimes the internal hemorrhoid extends into external hemorrhoids. The right treatment is based on a careful examination and determination of the extent of the hemorrhoids. Uncomplicated internal hemorrhoids can be injected and scarred down to nothing in some cases. External hemorrhoids with an obstructed vein sometimes need to be opened by a minor office surgical procedure. Otherwise they usually respond to local treatment. Residual itchy tags are sometimes removed. Surgery is also done to remove extensive internal, plus external, hemorrhoids.

If you want more information on hemorrhoids write to me at P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019 and ask for the booklet on hemorrhoids. Send 50 cents to cover costs.

You can do a lot to prevent or relieve hemorrhoid problems by using good bowel habits. Constipation and straining at the stool contribute to developing dilated veins around the rectum or hemorrhoids. Your diet and bowel habits are important preventive methods.

In any case, the popularly advertised medications are only useful for external application to relieve discomfort. They will not do anything for internal hemorrhoids. And, the suppositories placed in the rectum won't do anything for the external hemorrhoids. This isn't the worst feature of these medicines you can buy. Sometimes hemorrhoids are a symptom of something more serious. That something can be cancer of the rectum. I firmly believe anyone with new bleeding from the rectum must have an examination. Self-treatment is dangerous because it may delay prompt attention to a more serious problem.

It's simple to find a stacked deck

Simple matter to identify marked cards. Hold the deck in the left hand. Bend it sharply. Riffle the cards so you can see almost half of the backs of all the cards as they snap flat again. The back design on an unmarked deck will stand still. With a marked deck, shapes on those backs will shift and jump. Gambling expert John Scarne devised this minor detective trick.

BEST ATHLETES do not have straight spines. Or so contends one medico. He points to the sloping-shouldered Joe Namath, whose back quite normally curves from the neck to the tailbone in a vague S-shape. Such arches serve exceedingly well to absorb shock. Good thing, in Namath's case.

Mister, if your wife is putting on too much weight, maybe you better take a road trip for a few weeks to leave her home alone. That's the advice of health expert Ida Borner. Says she: when a woman who loves her husband is left alone at home, she generally loses her appetite and goes hungry because she doesn't feel like cooking for herself only.

Just playing is good enough for Carter

Former Bonita High star not bitter about being second string

LOS ANGELES — Allen Carter is good enough to start on almost any team in the nation, but the USC tailback is not bitter about backing up Heisman Trophy candidate Anthony Davis.

"I guess being first string means something," he says, "but I am not hung up on starting, just as long as I get to play. I'm playing more and enjoying this season more because of it. I feel more a part of the team."

A senior, Carter has already surpassed his sophomore (226 yards) and junior (294 yards) rushing totals. After seven games he was the second leading Trojan rusher, with 393 yards on 67 carries. He is averaging nearly six yards a carry.

The former Bonita High star has led the Trojans in yards per carry the last two years with sparkling 7.5 and 6.8 averages respectively. His career average per gain is 6.6. But nagging injuries and the presence of two other outstanding tailbacks, Davis and Rod McNeill (now playing for New Orleans) limited his playing time.

"Coach McKay likes to use two tailbacks," Allen says, "and with Anthony and McNeill, I didn't get to play much. I can understand playing McNeill because he was an upper classman and coming back from a tough injury. And my injuries were a factor."

It's ironic that Allen's injuries began with his most exciting run, a 68-yard gallop against Washington his sophomore year. It's the longest scrimmage run by a Trojan since 1969 when Clarence Davis had a 73-yarder.

"I pulled a hamstring," Carter recalls. "I was trying to get away from defensive back Calvin Jones at the five-yard line. I wasn't loose because I had just come into the game."

That one injury caused most of Carter's problems. He repulled the hamstring a month later. Then he pulled a groin muscle from favoring his hamstring injury.

Last year, he suffered a hyperextended knee during double days. Later, he sprained his big toe. He also had a couple more pulled muscles.

Before this season John McKay said, "If Allen's ever totally healthy and plays to his capabilities, he'll be fantastic. He was the best high school running back I have ever seen."

Allen is feeling fine this season. He thinks it's mainly due to the tips he received from Trojan track coaches Vern Wolfe and Ken Matsuda.

"I went out for track to get in shape," he says. "The coaches taught me to get in shape on my own to prevent pulled muscles. I have big thighs and they taught me to keep them toned. I do special stretching exercises and jog two laps before practice."

Carter won the 100-yard dash in 9.6 in the state championships his junior year at Bonita and was an All-CIF outfielder as a senior. But, outside of competing in two track meets as part of his conditioning program, Allen has stuck to football at USC.

"Football and studying take enough of my time," says Allen. He will graduate in June with a degree in public administration.

But his immediate future is in pro football. Although the public might not be fully aware of his skills, the pro scouts are. It's not often they find a six-foot, 205-pound back who can run the 40-yard dash in 4.4 seconds.

Fans yawn while Rams blank ineffective Falcons

A SURE TACKLE

The Rams' Lawrence McCutchen is brought down by Atlanta's Greg Brezina (50) and Claude Humphrey (87) but McCutcheon had last laugh in rushing for 140 yards in Rams' 21-0 blanking of Atlanta.

New skipper doesn't help, 21-0

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — It was a beautiful day to watch a football game at the Coliseum.

Too bad they didn't have one.

Oh, the Rams and Atlanta Falcons were there, but much of the time it looked like a contest to see which could be the most ineffectual.

The Falcons won that contest and the Rams won the ball game, what there was of it, 21-0 in an exhibition that was more boring than the score would indicate.

Of course coach Chuck Knox saw things much differently than did 70,056 slumbering fans who awakened occasionally to boo and less frequently to cheer.

"It was a good win," said Knox in a rare burst of optimism. "The Atlanta Falcons came here to play. There's no question about that. It's a real tribute to our defense that we were able to shut them out."

Shut them out the Rams did. But if the Falcons were emotionally up and ready to play, one had to be closer to the field than the press box to be able to see it.

Atlanta picked up only 119 yards rushing and 45 passing. The Falcons averaged 3.7 yards per rush and 1.6 yards per pass. Some of it is attributable to the admittedly fine Ram defense. But much of it appeared to be simply due to an inadequate offense headed up by a mediocre quarterback in Bob Lee.

The Ram offense, again, was nothing to brag about either. A pattern seems to be developing whereby the Rams march down the field impressively to score early in the game and then look lacklustre the rest of the afternoon.

Aside from Lawrence McCutcheon's 140 yards on 22 carries (a 6.4 average), there wasn't much to excite anyone offensively after the first touchdown drive.

James Harris completed only five of 13 passes for 130 yards.

True, two were for touchdowns. But they were set up by a combination of Falcon lapses and the Ram defense.

Harris perhaps is handicapped by having the bench call most of the plays. The plays seem unimaginative and unexciting.

But the Rams are winning although barely.

"I am not concerned about James Harris' passing percentage," Knox said, his eyes flashing. "Percentages can be misleading. They don't consider the number of dropped passes, the way you're rushed or the number of scrambles you make. All I know is that James Harris has started four games for us and he is 4-0. Also, nobody seems to listen because I've said it a lot, but there is better balance in the NFL this year than ever in history."

Maybe the next step is to unbalance things some. The fans were slumbering in the warm November sunshine and the writers in the pressbox were watching the smog build up over downtown Los Angeles.

"How do they ever get enough material for the Rams' Highlights program?" one wondered. "They ought to rename it Lowlights," sniffed another scribe.

When the defenses weren't shoving the offenses around, kickers John James of Atlanta and Mike Burke of the Rams entertained with exhibitions of how to and how not to punt.

James punted nine times, got the ball high in the air and with one exception (a 24-yard return to Cullen Bryant) had little return yardage.

Burke, who suddenly and mysteriously was signed after being fired by the Southern California Sun, continued to punt like he did for the Sun.

He hits more line drives than Henry Aaron.

USC coach forgets his own words

McKay takes issue with detractors

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — John McKay, often one of his own team's worst critics, took issue with University of Southern California detractors after a 34-10 win at Stanford Saturday.

"We've been one of the most maligned teams in the world," said McKay, who did much of the maligning a week ago after his team barely tied California 15-15.

"We're 6-1-1 and most teams aren't that good," he said. "Even Woody (Hayes, Ohio State coach) is only 7-1. I think we can still play better."

The win gives USC a 4-0-1 Pacific Eight Conference mark and improves their chances at playing in their third straight Rose Bowl. UCLA, which is 3-1-1 and meets the Trojans in two weeks, has the best chance of derailing USC.

"I thought this was our finest game," McKay said of the Stanford game. "Stanford is a very good defensive team."

USC rolled up 295 yards on the ground, with Anthony Davis leading the way with 119. Davis scored two touchdowns on runs of one and 21 yards and passed nine yards to John McKay for another score on a rare halfback option.

Davis said he and his teammates paid little attention to the widely-publicized rivalry between Stanford and USC. It was reported that USC players in the past have been the object of racial slurs from Stanford fans.

"If you get hung up about racial stuff it just hurts you," said Davis. "We don't come out worrying about what people say. I just read stuff like that and forget it."

Quarterback Pat Haden said his teammates—especially the seniors realized they had to win.

"This was our ball game," he said. "It was our last chance. The other guys would have other chances at the Rose Bowl but this was it for the seniors."

"I don't think there was a feeling of hatred or bitterness," he said. "I don't think we hate anybody we play. But I think we all realized the importance of the game and put everything we had into it."

USC now finishes out its regular season at the Coliseum, meeting Washington, UCLA and Notre Dame in the next three weeks.

Smith, Steele box at Olympic

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Heavyweights Howard Smith and Frank Steele meet in a scheduled 10-round bout at the Olympic Auditorium Thursday night.

Smith has won 19 of his 20 bouts, 15 by knockout. Steele, from Gary, Ind., is 11-0 with eight knockouts.

Steele recently returned from Zaire, where he was training with former heavyweight champion George Foreman.

In a companion 10-rounder, lightweight Randy Shields meets Roy Holloway. Shields is 15-0 with 10 knockouts. Holloway is 9-2.

Kings will take a short rest before taking on Maple Leafs

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Kings, unbeaten in their last eight games, have a few days off before meeting the Toronto Maple Leafs at the Forum Wednesday night.

The Kings, whose 9-1-5 record is the best in the NHL, are coming off a 2-2 tie with the New York Rangers here Saturday night.

The Kings' 23 points puts them four points ahead of second-place Montreal in Division III.

Frank St. Marseille's second-period goal Saturday night gave the Kings the tie with the Rangers. With the Kings behind 2-1, St. Marseille tapped in a rebound of a Dan Maloney shot. Ranger goalie Ed Giacomin lost sight of the puck in a scuffle in front of the net.

The Kings visit Vancouver Friday night and return home on Saturday to host the Chicago Black Hawks.

L.A. City prep linebacker dies

CARSON, Calif. (UPI) — An autopsy was scheduled to determine the exact cause of death of Philip Miller, 17, a Locke High School football player who died after suffering injuries in a game Friday.

Miller, a starting linebacker was hospitalized after suffering head and neck injuries in the first half of a game against Banning High School.

He had reportedly improved early Saturday, but had a relapse and died at 10:15 a.m.

A city schools spokesman said it was believed to be the first death directly attributed to football in Los Angeles city schools in the past 30 years.

New-look Lakers run better but lose anyway

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

INGLEWOOD — The new-look Lakers didn't win, but they played their most exciting home game of the season Sunday night.

In dropping their third straight game at home and second of the season to Golden State, the Lakers displayed a lot more movement. They ran and, at times, passed spectacularly.

But bad passing cropped up in the second half as the Warriors came from behind to win, 106-103.

The newest Laker, Lucius Allen, did not enter the game until the second quarter. But after an understandably slow start, the former UCLA star finished strong with 14 points, 13 in the second half and nine of them in the fourth quarter.

"I think we moved better and played more of a running game," said coach Bill Sharman. "I think Lucius Allen did a good job although his shooting was off. He gives us quickness. He penetrated."

Allen hit only four of 14 shots and sank six of eight free throws. Although playing only 27 of a possible 48 minutes, he led the Lakers in assists with seven and, surprisingly, had 12 rebounds.

"I wasn't satisfied with my performance at all," admitted the 6-2 former UCLA star as he sat on a stool in the dressing room surrounded by writers and broadcasters.

"I'll be better as I learn coach Sharman's system and get to know the players," he continued. "But I'd rather play horribly and win than play well and lose."

It was a busy day for the Lakers' new guard. He reported to the club at 11 a.m. Sunday. The shoot-around was delayed until noon so he could participate.

The afternoon was spent looking at films with Director of Player Personnel Larry Cregar.

"I have an idea of what my role will be here," Allen said. "But I haven't really sat down and gone over it with coach Sharman. But we have a couple of practices coming up in the next two days."

The loss dropped the Lakers to a 4-6 mark. The only team behind them in the Pacific Division is Portland with a 5-8 mark.

Worse, the schedule has the Lakers at home 13 of 20 games in October and November and the Lakers are failing to take advantage of it.

After this month, the best the Lakers have on their schedule in a single month is eight games at home and seven away. In December they play seven at home and nine away. In January it's four at home and eight away.

In the meantime, Sharman is trying to break in a new playmaker (Allen) and two new centers, Zelmo Beaty and Connie Hawkins. The 35-year-old Beaty played 36 minutes Sunday and Hawkins played the other 12 as Elmore Smith was a spectator for the entire 48 minutes Sunday night.

"Z (Zelmo) did a lot of good things in there," said Sharman. "He'll start for the time being. Right now we're still searching, looking for different combinations. We have so many problems in different areas it's hard to know where to begin."

Vermeil warns his own players about Beavers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — After UCLA was rudely upset at Washington two weeks ago, Dick Vermeil warned that his Bruins weren't out of the race for the Rose Bowl.

Now he has a warning for his own players—don't overlook Oregon State.

"If we don't beat them," he said, "the USC game will mean nothing."

A 21-0 winner over Oregon's Webfoots during the weekend, UCLA finds itself 3-1-1 in the Pacific-8. University of Southern California, the West Coast's perennial Rose Bowl representative, stands 4-0-1.

The Bruins will play at Oregon State next Saturday. Meanwhile, USC is at home against Washington. The big UCLA-USC shootout will be Nov. 23.

Two more UCLA victories will put the Bruins in the Rose Bowl for the first time since 1966.

Oregon coach Don Read, whose team lost 16-7 at Eugene last month, hinted he likes UCLA.

"We played better against USC than against UCLA but we were healthier then," Read said. "Both are quality football teams, but UCLA mixed its running and passing plays better against us.

"They're well coached. They have their guys in the right places."

Dick Vermeil, UCLA's first-year coach, found himself a replacement for the injured John Sciarra last Saturday.

Jeff Dankworth, a slick sophomore from Reno, Nev., scored on a 15-yard quarterback keeper in the first quarter and tallied on a one-yard sneak in the final period.

Meanwhile, UCLA's defense forced Oregon into six turnovers, five of them by Duck quarterback Norval Turner. Turner had four passes intercepted and fumbled once.

Gene Settles, a senior linebacker, recovered a fumble and intercepted a pass for UCLA, now 5-2-2 overall.

For UCLA, it was the first shutout since a Tommy Prothro-coached Bruin team blanked California 32-0 in 1969, 55 games ago.

Sun players finally paid

ANAHEIM (UPI) — The Southern California Sun, expected to end the season close to $1 million in the red, has paid its players eight days late but the WFL team's coaching and front office staff is still owed backpay.

The club failed to meet its payroll two weeks ago. Sun President Larry Hatfield said the team was experiencing "temporary cash flow problems."

The players got their late paychecks Saturday.

The Sun, which has already clinched the league's West Division title, ends its regular season Thursday.

Hatfield says he expects the team to lose about $1 million this season.

Viceroy Classic halted by rain

HONG KONG (UPI)—Organizers of the $50,000 Viceroy Tennis Classic, plagued by steady rain, called off the semi-final and final games of the singles today.

Organizers said they had to cancel the singles because some of the players had to leave for Manila Tuesday to play in the seventh leg of the Asian Commercial Grand Prix Circuit.

Sunday the semi-finals and finals of the doubles were dropped because of rain and wind brought on by tropical storm Gloria.

Organizers said the four players that qualified in the singles semi-finals will each get $4,600.

Year of the steal

Not only did Lou Brock of the St. Louis Cardinals set a new one-season basestealing record (118) in '74, but he and teammate Bake McBride (30) set a new two-man record for the same team with 148. The previous mark was 136 by Clyde Milan (74) and Danny Moeller (62) of the 1913 Washington Senators and tied by Maury Wills (104) and Willie Davis (32) of the 1962 Los Angeles Dodgers.

Turnovers hurt Lakers in loss to Warriors

The area that is the most obvious is the passing. The Lakers had 28 turnovers Sunday night. Meanwhile, Golden State is playing well and wining.

"I'm not surprised Golden State is doing so well," said Sharman. "They didn't seem this strong on paper. But I think they're good in all areas.

"We're making progress though," he concluded. "But there's no question we have a long way to go."

LAKER LEFTOVERS—For a change the Lakers outrebounded their opponents. Final tabulation showed 59 rebounds for the Lakers to 38 for the Warriors.

There were several questionable calls by the officials, Manny Sokol and Mark Manno. In the last quarter, most of them seemed to go against the Lakers.

Jazz hits high note in beating Blazers

By United Press International

It was a weekend of upsets all around. Michigan State toppled Ohio State, the New England Patriots and Buffalo Bills were both downed by previously struggling teams and the New Orleans Jazz won their first game in the National Basketball Association after 11 losses.

Before the season started, most of the coaches in the NBA agreed that the expansion New Orleans Jazz wouldn't be as bad as the Cleveland Cavaliers were when they broke into the league four years ago.

And they were right.

The Jazz, perhaps remembering that it was also on Nov. 10 that the Cavs gained their maiden victory in the NBA, surprised Bill Walton and the Portland Trail Blazers Sunday by breaking their 11-game losing skein with a 102-101 triumph. Cleveland still owns the record for the most frustrating introduction to the league when it started its first season by losing 15 straight in 1970.

Pete Maravich provided the winning points for New Orleans with a 20-foot jump shot with only two seconds remaining as the Jazz capped a comeback from 21 points down late in the third period.

"We had too much freelance in the first half," said Jazz coach Scotty Roberton, "that's why we got so far behind. Then we ran our break and trat helped us come from behind. Mel Counts made a few plays that sparked us and Pete took it from there. Pete was very much guarded on that last shot. We've had a lot of bad breaks, a lot of injuries, but I think we proved ourselves tonight."

"Pistol" Pete finished with 30 points, 12 assists, four steals and 11 rebohnds. Walton scored 25 points and had 16 rebounds for Portland but couldn't get a desperation shot off at the buzzer after the Blazers called time out following Maravich's shot. In other NBA games Sunday, Buffalo beat Detroit 124-117, Seattle downed Philadelphia 109-95, Boston trimmed Kansas City-Omaha 102-99, Atlanta beat Milwaukee 99-94 and Golden State edged Los Angeles 106-103.

In American Basketball Association action, Indiana defeated St. Louis 117-109, Denver trounced San Diego 125-101 and Memphis nipped San Antonio 91-89.

Braves 124 Pistons 117

Jim McMillian scored all 10 of his second half points in the last four minutes to lead Buffalo past Detroit despite a 45-point performance from the Piston's Bob Lanier.

Supersonics 109 76ers 95

Seattle used a well-balanced attack from their starting five, all of whom scored in double figures, to easily beat Philadelphia. Spencer Haywood led the Supersonics with 27 points. Billy Cunningham was high for the 76ers with 24 points.

Celtics 102 Kings 99

John Havlicek, who finished with 26 points, scored the winning goal with 20 seconds left for Boston as the Celtics spoiled Kansas City-Omaha's debut in their new Kemper Arena. Havlicek then clinched the victory with two free throws.

Hawks 99 Bucks 94

Tom Van Arsdale celebrated his trade from Philadelphia to Atlanta Friday by scoring 23 points for the Hawks to hand the Milwaukee Bucks their eighth straight loss—a club record. Jim Price, traded to Milwaukee from Los Angeles for Lucius Allen Saturday, scored 22 points for the Bucks, still struggling without injured Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

Pacers 117 Spirits 109

Darnell Hillman, starting in place of injured scoring leader George McGinnis, scored a career high 25 points for the Indiana Pacers in their win over the Spirits of St. Louis. Rookie Marvin Barnes led the Spirits with 25 points.

Nuggets 125 Q's 101

Denver outscored San Diego 21-2 during a seven-minute stretch in the second quarter to coast to the victory. Mack Calvin paced the Nuggets with 21 points while Travis Grant led San Diego with 31. Denver's Ralph Simpson had 12 points before leaving early in the third quarter for x-rays on a sprained finger on his right hand.

Sounds 91 Spurs 89 (OT)

Mel Daniels hit a tip-in with one second remaining in overtime to push Memphis to a slim win over San Antonio.

Sports news in brief

OSAKA, Japan (UPI) — Teddy Martinez hit a three-run homer in the fifth inning and John Milner added a two-run homer in the seventh to give the New York Mets a 5-1 victory over an All Japan team Sunday before more than 50,000 fans at Koshien Stadium.

Met ace Tom Seaver went the distance to win his first game in Japan as he scattered four hits, walked four and struck out 11 batters.

It was the Mets' third win in as many games with the Japan All Stars, following 8-0 and 4-2 victories in Tokyo earlier this month. The Mets now have won five, lost five and tied two games on their 15-game goodwill series.

TOKYO, Japan (UPI) — Former world junior welterweight champion Eddie Perkins of Chicago lost a unanimous ten-round decision Monday night to Japanese welterweight champion Shoji Tsujimoto at Korakuen Hall.

There were no knockdowns in the listless fight.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Former Philadelphia Eagle Nat Ramsey was shot and wounded Sunday and another man was killed in a West Philadelphia bar.

Ramsey, 33, a defensive back who played for the Eagles from 1963 to 1972, was listed in serious condition at Misericordia Hospital with a gunshot wound of the shoulder.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI)—The Charlotte Hornets are expected to be paid before their World Football League game with the Memphis Southmen Wednesday but they may have to play without their regular gear.

General Manager Upton Bell gave the players their paychecks over the weekend but asked them to hold them until early this week when money is expected to be available to back the checks.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Jack Ingram of Asheville, N.C., three time National Sportsman champion, took top honors Sunday in the sportsman division of the $33,000 Charlotte 500 stock car race, and Harry Gant of Taylorsville, N.C., finished first in the modified division.

Ingram, who says he is not in contention for the national sportsman championship this year, jumped ahead of other racers in the field this year. He took home a first-prize purse of $2,800 for his efforts in the 250-lap race in his 1968 Chevelle.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — The Birmingham Americans football team says it will pay $14,000 in sales taxes it owes Jefferson County by Tuesday.

The financially troubled World Football League team was warned last week that it could face court action if the taxes were not paid.

The team's major stockholder, Bill Putnam, said he is looking for a loan and more community support for the team.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — The St. Louis—Blues Sunday night traded center Dave Gardner and minor leaguer Butch Williams to the California Golden Seals for wings Stan Gilbertson and Craig Patrick.

Gilbertson, 30, has been with the Seals longer than any other player on the California roster. He joined them during the 1971-72 season and last season scored his National Hockey League high of 18 goals.

LONDON (UPI) — The British Boxing Board of Control ruled today that Danny McAlinden, British and Commonwealth heavyweight champion, may not fight at Wembley on Tuesday.

The Board said its previous ruling that McAlinden will not be allowed to box until he defends his title must be adhered to.

Rams' punter has his problems

One went into the end zone. Another luckily landed between Atlanta players and got a good bounce. The two that were returnable were run back for 19 and nine yards.

What Burke's kicks lack in height, they make up for in shortness.

Rams official Jack Teele admitted the club is not wildly enthusiastic about its new punter's performance to date.

"It's terrible," Teele said. "But he's inexperienced and should improve."

What was really wrong with Dave Chapple?, the writer wanted to know. "Dave was a three-step kicker," Teele answered. "You just can't take that long now. We converted him to a two-step kicker but he just couldn't adjust. I think it was all mental."

Perhaps the whole day's efforts were best summed up by new Falcon coach Marion Campbell. "it didn't look to me like there was a 21-point difference," he said.

There wasn't. Both teams were boring.

"He's the fastest big man we've ever had," says McKay. "Earl McCullouch is the only other player we've had who ran 4.4. O. J. Simpson ran 4.5. That's how fast Allen is."

Yet Carter looks like he's hardly moving when he's running. Many times it looks like he's about to be tackled but he gets by with the befuddled tackler grabbing air. His deceptive speed even fooled Bruce Snyder, the new Trojan backfield coach.

Carter remembers. "Coach Snyder was getting on me during double days for not running fast. But Coach McKay called him over and told him not to worry about it. The coach said, 'It's just his style. He makes people miss.' "

Now, if he can only find more playing time. As Allen says, he's in a wierd situation. "If we get far ahead," he says, "the coach plays Dwight Ford (a freshman) because he needs experience."

Pro football roundup

Anderson's tackle saves Bengals' win

By United Press International

Ken Anderson set two National Football League passing records Sunday, but his big play was a game-saving tackle in the closing minutes.

Cincinnati Coach Paul Brown, who has been around Pro-Football long enogh to know, said afterwards: "Kenny Anderson is a lot of man. He is a hell of a football player."

Anderson convinced the Pittsburgh Steelers of that Sunday with his record-setting performance, which propelled the Cincinnati Bengals to a 17-10 victory and back into the race for a playoff berth.

Anderson set NFL records for consecutive completions and highest passing efficiency, but he also shook off a bell-ringing shot to the head in the third quarter to save the Cincinnati victory with a crucial tackle in the game's waning minutes.

"I had no idea I was breaking records," said Anderson, a shy, unassuming type who customarily shuns publicity. "I feel better about beating Pittsburgh. We won the game and that's what counts."

But anyone keeping count discovered Anderson completed 80.9 per cent of his passes (20 for 22) and connected on his first eight which gave him 16 straight after completing his last eight against Baltimore last week.

Both are NFL records.

The 16 straight completions broke the record of 15 shared by Joe Namath and Len Dawson, while the 80.9 completion percentage surpassed the record of 86.2 (25 of 29) set by Ken Stabler last season.

But Anderson's biggest play came with 4:04 left in the game when Pittsburgh's Mike Wagner picked up a fumble on the Steeler nine and raced toward the Bengals' goal line for the would-be tying touchdown. Anderson, who had assumed the play whistled dead, suddenly took off in pursuit and lowered his head to butt Wagner out of bounds on the Cincinnati 22.

Anderson was slow in getting up, which was not surprising following the right-arm smash he took to the head in the third quarter.

On that play, Anderson had just stepped out of bounds after a short run when Pittsburgh's Glen Edwards levelled him with a wildly swung right arm. When play resumed, Anderson was still lying on the ground and did not return to the game until Cincinnati's next possession. Edwards was banished from the game.

"I heard a loud ringing in my ears. But I wasn't knocked out," Anderson said. 3

"He is really a super young man," Brown said enthusiastically.

Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll, who saw the Steelers lead in the AFC Central Division shrink to a half-game over the Bengals, asked reporters after the game whether they wanted his "printable or unprintable" reaction. He compromised with: "They just beat the hell out of us."

In other Sunday games, Houston upset Buffalo 21-9; the New York Jets defeated the New York Giants 26-20; Cleveland surprised New England 21-14; Washington beat Philadelphia 27-20; Dallas topped San Francisco 20-14; Green Bay ripped Chicago 20-3; Denver beat Baltimore 17-6; San Diego dbeat Kansas City 14-7; Los Angeles shut out Atlanta 21-0, Miami dumped New Orleans 21-0 and Oakland clobbered Detroit 35-13. Minnesota was scheduled to play the Cardinals in St. Louis Monday night.

Oilers 21 Bills 9

The Oilers intercepted six passes by Joe Ferguson to hold the Bills to only three field goals for their third straight victory. Vic Washington's nine-yard touchdown run in the third quarter proved the game-winner.

Browns 21 Patriots 14

Cleveland scored twice in the first two minutes on Greg Pruitt's 88-yard kickoff return and Tom Darden's 29-yard run with a fumble recovery to hand New England its second straight loss. Sam Cunningham tied the score with a pair of short dives, but Ken Brown's four-yard run in the last quarter won the game for the Browns.

Dolphins 21 Saints 0

Bob Griese threw three touchdown passes, two to tight end Jim Mandich, as the Dolphins regained a share of first place in the AFC East.

N.Y. Jets 26 N.Y. Giants 20

In the first NFL regular season game won in sudden death overtime, Joe Namath connected with Emerson Boozer on a five-yard pass at 6:53 of the extra period for the winning touchdown. The only other NFL game this season to go into overtime ended in a tie between Denver and Pittsburgh.

Redskins 27 Eagles 20

The grand old man of Washington, Sonny Jurgensen, dragged his ailing body off the bench in the third quarter Sunday to overcome a 20-14 Eagles' lead. After setting up 40 and 35-yard field goals by Mike Moseley, Jurgensen connected on a game-winning 30-yard touchdown pass to Charley Taylor with 2:13 left to play.

Raiders 35 Lions 13

Ken Stabler connected on 20 of 24 passes, including two touchdowns strikes, to lead the Raiders past the Lions for Oakland's eighth straight victory.

Cowboys 20 49ers 14

Calvin Hill ran for a club record 153 yards to carry the Cowboys past the 49ers, although it took a 70-yard drive late in the final quarter to pull out the victory. Hill scored from the six-yard line for the winning TD.

Broncs 17 Colts 6

The Broncos did little right Sunday except play the Colts, who went down to their eighth defeat of the season despite outgaining Denver in passing and rushing. Riley Odoms caught a one-yard pass from Charley Johnson and Otis Armstrong ran 37 yards for Denver touchdowns.

Chargers 14 Chiefs 7

Rookie quarterback Jesse Freitas threw a 71-yard touchdown pass to Gary Garrison with 9:02 left in the game as the Chargers upset the Chiefs

Packers 20 Bears 3

Rookie Steve Odom returned a punt 95 yards on the final play of the first half to spark the Packers' victory over the Bears.

Joe Namath won't discuss WFL rumors

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) — Joe Namath refused to comment on reports Sunday that he is looking into the possibility of buying a World Football League franchise and becoming football's first player-owner.

"You have to talk to my lawyer, Jimmy Walsh, about that," said the New York Jet quarterback after leading his team to a 26-20 overtime victory over the New York Giants. "I don't think about things like that. I like football and I hope to be part of the game but wait and see what happens after the season is over. "Right now all I'm thinking about is next week, not next year."

Namath, who is playing out his option this season and becomes a free agent on May 1, has consistently refused to discuss his plans until the season ends."

The WFY rumor was the latest to surface concerning Namath's future. He also is believed to be interested in playing in Los Angeles, though he and Ram officials refuse to comment on the situation.

Denver loses player in deal

DENVER (UPI) — The Denver Spurs of the Central Hockey League said Sunday they lost Butch Williams in a trade between the NHL St. Louis Blues and the California Golden Seals.

The Blues sent Williams, who has been with Denver this season, and Dave Gardner, who has been with the parent Blues, to California for Stan Gilbertsen and Craig Patrick.

Spurs officials said they did not know if they would get either of the players from California.

Ashe whips Okker to win in Stockholm

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Arthur Ashe of Gum Springs, Va., used his devastating serve and "killing" volley play to destroy Tom Okker of the Netherlands in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2, Sunday in the final of the $100,000 Stockholm Open tennis tournament.

The lanky American, who became the second player to win this title twice, needed only 55 minutes to sweep Okker off the court. The victory was worth $12,000 to Ashe and 80 points in the Commercial Union Grand Prix circuit.

Another American, Stan Smith of Sea Pines, S.C., also is a two-time winner of the Stockholm Open.

Okker later came back to win the doubles with Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., by 2-6, 6-3, 6-4 over reigning WCT champions Bob Hewitt and Frew McMillan of South Africa. The winning team split $6,000.

Ashe, who said he liked the court in the Royal Tennis hall, built up a commanding 4-0 lead in the first set. Okker, playing his second finals in this tournament, had no weapon to reply to Ashe's strong serve and excellent backhand-cross. Ashe passed his opponent almost at will with his backhand.

Ashe set the pattern when he broke Okker's serve in the first game. He made another spectacular break in the third game, and while Okker managed to hold his next two services, it was too late to save the first set.

Ashe again broke the diminutive Dutchman's first serve in the second set and it appeared Okker had little left following his upset Saturday of topseeded Bjoern Borg of Sweden in the semifinals.

Metcalf's status uncertain

Cards face Vikings

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — With Washington and Dallas getting up steam, St. Louis Coach Don Coryell may hold a gimpy Terry Metcalf out of tonight's Minnesota game to ensure his health for the Eastern Division title drive.

Metcalf suffered a knee injury a week ago at Dallas and was listed as doubtful for tonight. However, his status was upgraded during the week to questionable, then to probable, for the Vikings game.

KABC (7), 6 p.m.

Metcalf said Sunday, "Coach Coryell really hasn't told me yet if I'll play. I'd like to play, but it's not up to me. It's still up in the air.

"I can play with a little bit of pain," he added, "but if I can't be mobile I don't want to deal with it."

Running back Jim Otis also is nursing a sore leg and, with Metcalf out, the St. Louis rushing attack would be hurting.

Metcalf's value was evident after he left the Dallas game early in the second quarter. The Cowboys shut off the Cardinal rushers, loosened up their defense to stop the pass and broke the St. Louis winning streak with a 20-yard field goal in the final seconds for a 17-14 win.

Metcalf also is the gem of the St. Louis specialty teams. He has 1,137 yards of total offense and leads the National Football Conference in punt returns with 10 for 181 yards and kickoff returns with 12 for 435 yards.

The game will match two of the National Football Conference's highest rated quarterbacks. Jim Hart is rated No. 1 and has thrown 13 touchdowns in leading St. Louis to a 7-1 record. He has 85 completions in 166 attempts with only three interceptions.

Close behind is Minnesota's Fran Tarkenton, who is No. 3 in passing statistics. He has thrown nine touchdowns and has 123 completions in 210 attempts with eight interceptions.

St. Louis is in the running for the Eastern Division title for the first time since 1966. Tackle Dan Dierdorf shows the team's new confidence in predicting:

"We're going to win the division."

After Minnesota, the Cardinals face a fading Philadelphia club, then have two meetings with the New York Giants and games with Kansas City and New Orleans.

If Metcalf is held out tonight, given spot duty or used as a decoy, he may have another chance to show the Vikings what a 5-foot-10, 185-pound running back can do.

Tonight's matchup could be renewed in the first game of the playoffs when the Central and Eastern Division winners meet. A healthy Metcalf would give St. Louis a good shot in the East and the Vikings' 6-2 record makes them strong contenders for their sixth Central Division title in seven years.

Tar Heels accept bid

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (UPI) — The University of North Carolina Sunday accepted an invitation to play in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex., Dec. 28, against Mississippi State.

Tar Heel Coach Bill Dooley said he had received the invitation last Wednesday, but acceptance of the offer had been delayed until members of the faculty athletic committee had a chance to study it.

The acceptance of the Sun Bowl bid came 24 hours after the Clemson Tigers had handed the Tar Heels a humiliating 54-32 defeat, knocking North Carolina out of contention for the Atlantic Coast Conference crown.

But Dooley said the Tar Heels will "be happy to be going back to the Sun Bowl."

ALAMITOS COMEBACK -- Present plans call for Tiny's Gay, the quarter horse superstar who won 12 of 13 starts this year, to return to competition during the next Los Alamitos meet.

John Colville, of Paramount, who acquired the speedster as a yearling for $3,000 and watched him earn some $440,000 reports Tiny's Gay is recovering from a leg fracture, apparently sustained in the Trails for the rich All-American Futurity.

"He came out of the Futurity with a fracture of the upper splint bone," Colville stated. "The fracture was big enough to put your finger through. I guess he did it in the Trials and then really cracked it in the finals."

During surgery, three screws were placed in the injured bone to hold it together. "If it doesn't heal, we'll retire him. But if everything goes okay, we'll probably bring him back at Los Alamitos."

Tiny's Gay became a TV personality in acquiring his riches. A regional TV network telecast watched him win the Kansas and Rainbow Futurities and a national audience saw him drop a nose decision to Easy Date in the rich All-American.

HAPPY DAY — When Hula Chief raced to victory in the Crete Handicap at Sportsman's Park Saturday, it was a happy day for the Dick Hazelton barn. And for groom H. Fellow Hernandez, in particular. Hula Chief only got to start four times last year because of physical problems and now he's picked up a pair of stakes wins this fall for his Arizona conditioner.

Hernandez, like Hazelton, hails from Arizona. "When I first showed up at the track," explains the veteran groom, "my name was Jose l'Antonio Perdo Hernandez. But when someone wanted me, they always hollered 'Hey Fellow.' It was useless. So to make matters more simple, I changed my name to H. Fellow Hernandez."

The "H" nowadays may stand for Happy.

INTERESTING EVENING — Today at Keeneland, the first mare to be offered at public auction who is in foal to Secretariat will enter the sales ring at Keeneland.

The expectant mama, Levee Night, was a right fine runner on her own. She won or placed in 27 of her 31 career starts and recently gave birth to her first foal, a filly by another champion, Round Table.

In all, three mares in foal to Secretariat are to be sold. According to statistics, 34 of the 36 matrons the Horse of the Century entertained are reported to be in foal. And it wasn't long ago that all of that sterile business was gaining headlines.

It appears Secretariat may be a champion in the stud, too.

Ottawa plays for East title

OTTAWA (UPI) — Gerry Organ kicked a clutch 35 yard field goal with only one minute remaining Sunday to give the Ottawa Rough Riders a 21-18 win over the Hamilton Tiger Cats and a berth in the Canadian Football League eastern conference final.

The Riders, defending Grey Cup champions, will play Montreal next Sunday for the eastern conference title. The winner of that game will meet the first place team in the west for the Grey Cup in Vancouver Nov. 24.

Sunday's semifinal game ultimately proved to be a kicking contest. For Ottawa, Dick Adams' steady punting and Organ's last minute field goal, one of two he booted in the game, proved superior to Ian Sunter's attempts for Hamilton.

Sunter could muster only a 30 yard punting average and missed two field goal attempts in the last four minutes, including one from the Ottawa 36 on the game's last play.

Saskatchewan reaches finals

REGINA, SASK. (UPI) — The Saskatchewan Roughriders ground out a 24-14 victory over the British Columbia Lions Sunday to advance to the Canadian Football League western conference final next week against Edmonton.

The winner of that game will meet the winner of the Montreal-Ottawa eastern conference playoff for the Grey Cup in Vancouver Nov. 24.

College championship up for grabs

By United Press International

Michigan State's stunning victory over Ohio State has thrown the race for college football's national championship wide open and added another historic upset to the game's history.

The former adds zest to the current campaign and sets up showdown situations for Nov. 23 and Nov. 29 which should decide a national champion outright.

The latter provides the kind of fuel which will give college football fans a debatable issue for years. Little kids in East Lansing, Mich., and Columbus, Ohio, will be spoonfed on the events that transpired in the final hectic seconds of Saturday's 16-13 upset by the three-touchdown underdog Spartans of Michigan State.

Michigan State's victory means: (1) undefeated Michigan and Alabama, tied for the No. 2 national ranking a week ago, become the favorites for the national championship; (2) the Michigan-Ohio State and Auburn-Alabama games become even more important than they originally were; and (3) the Orange Bowl contest between Alabama and Notre Dame shapes up as the most attractive of the post-season contests.

Ohio State wasn't alone in its disappointment Saturday as four other teams ranked in the top 10 and three unranked but bowlbound teams were beaten. Southern Methodist defeated fourth-ranked Texas A&M 18-14, North Carolina State beat sixth-ranked Penn State 12-7, Georgia topped seventh-ranked Florida 17-16 and Baylor downed 10th-ranked Texas 34-24.

In addition, Kentucky defeated Peach Bowl-bound Vanderbilt 38-12, Sun Bowl-bound Mississippi State bowed to Auburn 24-20 and Sun Bowl-bound North Carolina was routed by Clemson 54-32.

But the big one of the season —in fact, one of the big ones in college football history—took place at East Lansing.

Levi Jackson's 88-yard run from scrimmage and Hans Nielsen's extra point gave Michigan State the 16-13 lead with 3:17 left in the game. But Ohio State stormed back with a 70-yard march to the one. One shot at the goal line failed and the Buckeyes hurriedly lined up as the clock ran out its final seconds. Champ Henson dived into the end zone and one official signalled a touchdown. He quickly withdrew the call, however, when two other officials said time had run out.

Fans streamed onto the field, supporters of both squads thinking their team had won. The dispute wasn't resolved until an hour after the game when Big 10 Commissioner Wayne Duke made the 16-13 final score official.

It's a game that'll be played over and over again for years— one for the books.

Also one that'll remain rich in the history of Michigan State football.

Q. "WHAT IS A SEISMOGRAPH?"

When an earthquake occurs, the violent movement of part of the earth's crust causes vibrations that spread out in all directions through the earth.

To help detect and measure earthquakes, scientists have invented an instrument called a "seismograph" (pronounced SIZE mo graf); an earthquake recorder.

Basically, a seismograph consists of a weight that is delicately suspended above a chart from a fixed base.

When an earthquake shakes the ground, the weight itself tends to remain still while the chart below it moves.

As the chart quivers beneath the weight, a recording pen attached to the weight records the wave pattern on the chart (in some seismographs a ray of light traces the pattern on photographic paper).

The wiggly lines tell scientists how powerful the earthquake was. A seismograph can make a record of an earthquake thousands of miles away.

A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

Steam power development is too slow

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — State Conservation Director Ray B. Hunter today said "unclear and imprecise" state policies are slowing down development of California's geothermal resources.

In remarks prepared for the fall meeting of the Water Resources Center Advisory Council, Hunter said state policies on steam power "are not sufficient if California's geothermal resources are to be properly exploited for the common good."

Hunter, chairman of the state Geothermal Resources Board, said he will recommend to Gov. Ronald Reagan three ways of accelerating geothermal development.

One recommendation, he said, will request creation of a new geothermal energy policy that is "more precise, more direct and more understandable." He said that policy will call for tax relief for geothermal drillers and require streamlining of the permit-granting process for dillers.

Hunter said a geothermal driller currently must secure permission from as many as nine state and local agencies to sink an exploratory well.

Hunter said he will ask that his Department of Conservation be named the lead agency for areawide environmental impact reports to be used by geothermal operators as a "reference base." Hunter said it currently takes as long as 14 months and as much as $25,000 before exploration can begin.

His third recommendation would be to assign a fulltime, on-the-site representative of the state to The Geysers in Northern California, which produces 400,000 kilowatts of electrical energy and is the largest such area in the world.

Hunter said the representative would perform rapid inspection and monitor the total operation to insure that state regulations are being followed.
